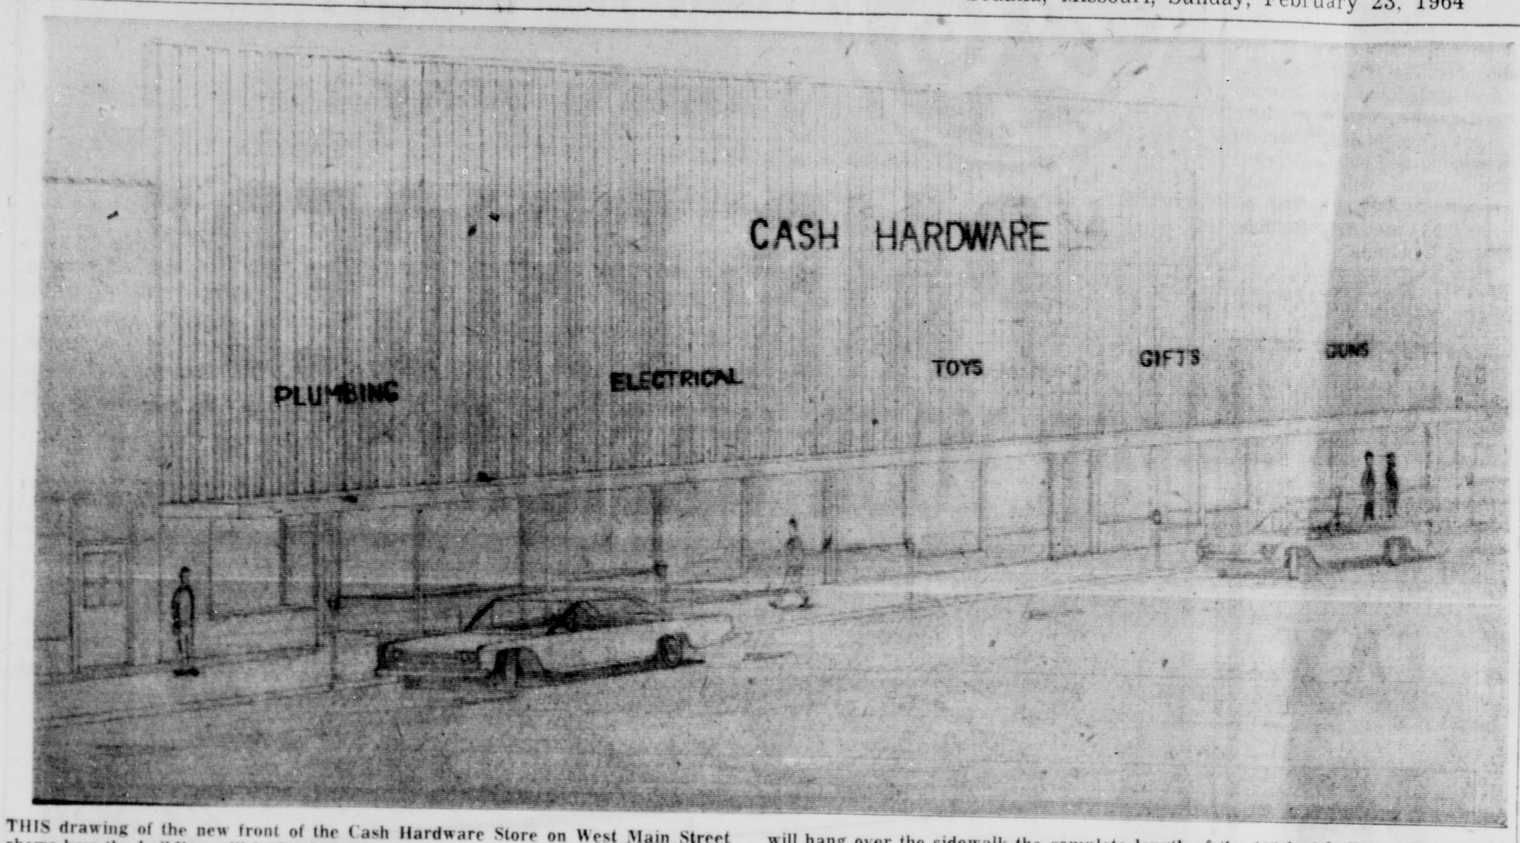
THE SEDALIA DEMOCRAT

In Combination With The Sunday Morning Capital

Volume Thirty-Three, Number 8 — Sedalia, Missouri, Sunday, February 23, 1964 — Fifty Pages — Price Fifteen Cents



THIS drawing of the new front of the Cash Hardware Store on West Main Street shows how the building will look when current improvements project is completed about April 1. The top part will be of metal in light green and an aluminum canopy will hang over the sidewalk the complete length of the 115 foot building. The business was started in 1932 by W. C. Cain. In business with him is his son, Bob.

Beautifying Main Street

Facelifting Job On Cash Hardware

One of Sedalia's largest stores is getting a new front and will not only make it a very attractive building but will add greatly to the appearance of Main Street where it is located. The store is Cash Hardware, in the one hundred block on the north side of the street west of Ohio, and consists of five original buildings that have been previously remodeled inside combining them into one big store.

The top part of the building will be metal in light green with black raised letters, and above the show windows area will be a five foot aluminum canopy the full length of the building which is 115 feet long. The building is about 35 feet tall.

The row of buildings were built in 1870, and many things have been in them since that time, both on the lower and upper floors, however, there has always been a hardware store there.

It was in 1932 that W. C. Cain started acquiring the buildings, and the first one was at 106 West Main. Upstairs in that first building, said Robert Cain, who is in business with his father, Fred Colvin made harneses, and he continued to make them until 1944. He sold as many as 50 and 60 harnesses in a year.

Skipping one building, Cain then bought the building at 110 Main because the Bard Drug building was between, but later he was able to acquire that building, too. He purchased the buildings at 112 and 114 Main in about 1944.

For a long time they operated as five different shops, each building with a separate doorway, then the walls were removed inside to tie the shops together into one huge store and the doors were closed to give a unity of front. There has been a gradual modernization inside, which included, also, a balcony office and a sprinkler system.

Quite a change has taken place in merchandise since the hardware business first started on Main Street, when the great demand then was for an ax, coal oil stove and horse collar—today it is automatic heating, plumbing equipment, and outdoor living supplies—but, of course, some of the same things have come through the years.

Among the many types of stores that have been in those buildings have been a used furniture store which was run by Sam Walker, father of Morris Walker, of the Walker's Clothing Store across the street, and there was a tire and battery shop. During the 1930's lots of people went in and out of business in those buildings. Above were dentists offices, and old dentist chairs were found there when Cain took over, there were doctors offices, too, and various other offices.

The Cash Hardware Store has 18 employees and has a wide trade area going as far as 60 miles. In addition to serving homeowners both in Sedalia and the rural area, it also serves contractors and homeowners.

The work on the building front is being done by Tempel-Callison Co., and is expected to be completed by the first of April.

Accident Severely Injures Two

A one-car accident on state road HH northeast of Sedalia, resulted in two persons being severely injured about 9:45 p.m. Saturday and the automobile, a 1957 Ford sedan, being demolished. The accident occurred on the first curve east of U.S. Highway 65, near the old junction of Cedar Drive Road.

George Wendell Clay, 39, 423 North Osage, is in serious condition suffering from a concussion and possible skull fracture, multiple abrasions and bruises. He was believed to have been the driver of the vehicle.

His companion, Mrs. Amanda Edwards, 40, of 119 East Pacific, suffered facial lacerations, bruises and abrasions, and possible concussion. She was thrown more than 35 feet from the car.

Clay was thrown out beside the car as it came to a stop.

The two injured persons were brought to Sedalia to the Bothwell Hospital in the Ewing ambulance where Dr. A. R. Maddox rendered medical treatment and had X-rays taken to determine if there might be any skull fractures or broken bones.

The car was headed east on the new state route road and the driver apparently failed to realize he was into the curve until too late. The car left the highway, knocking over a warning standard, and rolled over at least three times going approximately 165 feet before landing on its wheels about 30 feet off of the roadway. Mrs. Edwards was thrown out of the car to the north landing on the dirt face down.

Passing motorists who came upon the accident, stopped and rolled her body over to get her face out of the dirt and dust.

Trooper Richard Joos of the State Highway Patrol investigated the accident and indicated excessive speed was the cause of the mishap.

The Bacon Station wrecker towed the vehicle back to Sedalia.

Announcement Of Recognition Comes From Congo Republic

BRAZZAVILLE, Congo Republic (AP)—The Congo Republic, a former French African colony, announced Saturday it has recognized Red China—following in the footsteps of President Charles de Gaulle of France.

As in the case of France, which recognized Red China Jan. 27, the Congo Republic did not break off its nominal ties with the Nationalist Chinese government of Chiang Kai-shek on Formosa. However, Foreign Minister Charles Ganao told newsmen that the Nationalist mission in Brazzaville had "lost its representativity." He added that since neither Peking nor Formosa accepts the two-Chinas theory, "for us Formosa no longer exists."

Convention Hall Open To Public Today For An Inspection

The newly remodeled Convention Hall at Liberty Park will be open for public inspection today, according to L. R. Black, park superintendent.

"Residents won't recognize the interior of the building," Black says, "Because we have made so many improvements in recent weeks which include a ceiling."

Kansas City Man Held In Store Theft

Edmund S. Willis, 930 the Paseo, Kansas City, was charged Saturday with stealing over $50 in merchandise from the Montgomery Ward store. He was arrested Friday night.

Willis is accused of taking a portable typewriter from the business and putting it in a car.

According to police they received a call about 7:30 p.m. from Wards reporting the shoplifting of the typewriter. Police obtained a description of the man and a woman with him. Police in turn visited several stores giving the pair's description to clerks to be on the lookout.

Police received a call they had entered the J. C. Penney Co. at 7:45 p.m. and went to the store where they apprehended the couple, taking them to police headquarters. At headquarters they gave their names as Edmund S. Willis, 38, and the woman first gave the name of Charlyne Chatman and later as Helen Anderson, 32, of the same Kansas City address. The woman denied any connection with the theft, but was detained for further investigation by police.

Sheriff Emmett Fairfax Friday night sent Deputy Jack Couts to police headquarters after the sheriff's department had learned of the case. Couts and Assistant Police Chief William Miller questioned Willis and the woman.

Couts said that after talking to the pair he notified Fairfax and the sheriff came to police headquarters also. Fairfax and Couts said Saturday morning that Willis admitted the shoplifting incident and absolved his woman companion of being implicated. The sheriff said Willis made this admission in the presence of himself and Couts, Assistant Chief Miller and city police officer William Burnham.

Prosecuting Attorney J. R. Fritz filed the charge of stealing over $50 against Willis Saturday morning. The state warrant prepared by Fritz listed the value of the typewriter at $68.95.

Willis was transferred from the city to the county jail and was being held in lieu of $2,500 bond set by Magistrate Court Judge Frank Armstrong. Sheriff Fairfax said Willis would be arraigned before Armstrong Monday.

Returns From Paris

ROME (AP) — President Antonio Segni returned by air Saturday night from Paris after a three-day state visit in France and talks with President Charles de Gaulle.

In a statement on his arrival here Segni said he gathered "comforting and spontaneous feelings of brotherhood nourished by the French people towards Italy."

For Effectiveness

Committees Will Spot Check Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson is expected to recommend soon that foreign aid be cut back in scope and that its effectiveness be checked on a country-by-country basis.

Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., said Saturday he has received personal assurance from the President of his decision to create a number of committees to make on-the-spot checks of how American money is being spent abroad and how effective it is as a cold war weapon.

Cooper long has advocated such an examination, arguing it is essential to save the program from elimination by Congress.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, the assistant Democratic leader from Minnesota, said in a separate interview that he, too, has been told the President has accepted the Cooper idea in principle.

Humphrey added that the President will incorporate this and other ideas for changes in a message to Congress, probably this week, asking authorization for a $3.4-billion program for the year starting next July 1.

The message, Humphrey said, will call also for cutting the number of countries which have been receiving foreign aid and reducing the assistance that goes to others.

"The President plans to eliminate some countries entirely and eliminate separate foreign aid missions in others and make a substantial reduction in foreign aid personnel," Humphrey said.

He added that Johnson is trying to tailor the program as much as possible to meet major criticisms voiced in the Senate and House last year when Congress cut the administration's foreign aid request from $4.5 billion to $3 billion.

"Needless to say I am happy over the President's assurances that the aim of my amendment, which the Senate adopted by a 79-1 vote, will be put into effect by the administration," Cooper said.

The amendment called for the creation of three- to five-member committees to review the effectiveness of economic aid programs in specific areas of the world, such as Latin America, the Middle East, Southeast Asia and Africa. It would call for a detailed review of the programs in the 15 to 20 countries receiving half of the total economic assistance.

Scranton Gets Nod At Mock Convention At University

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP)—Gov. William Scranton of Pennsylvania won the Republican presidential nomination on the third ballot at a University of Missouri mock political convention Saturday night over 11 other candidates.

Sen. Barry Goldwater got 358 votes on the first ballot, Gov. Nelson Rockefeller 240 and Scranton 136.

On the second ballot Goldwater got 375, Rockefeller 289 and Scranton 219.

The majority of about 11,070 student delegates swung to Scranton on the third ballot, giving him 872 votes, Goldwater 181, and Gov. George Romney of Michigan was third with 86. Rockefeller dropped to fifth place.

Civil rights, foreign policy and national defense were the main planks in the platform adopted by the convention.

New Traffic Control Lane Cuts Mishaps

New tri-lane traffic control at the busy intersection of Broadway and Limit appear to have brought a reduction in auto accident rates at that point.

A statistical map maintained of accident locations at police headquarters by Sgt. John McDonald shows no mishap pins at the intersection since the first of the year. Since Jan. 1 and the relocation of Highway 65 no accidents have occurred north of 16th and Limit within the city.

Accidents thus far on Limit have occurred as follows: one at 32nd and Limit, one at Country Club Blvd. and Limit, and two at 16th and Limit where a new traffic signal has recently been installed.

The auto mishap picture so far is showing nothing new elsewhere about town. A core area measuring roughly 12 blocks on each side of Broadway and Ohio continues to be the region of most mishaps.

Broadway and Grand, always a heavy accident point, has five to its credit this year. Three mishaps have come between Quincy and Grand on Broadway and six between Moniteau and Kentucky.

Wilson's Goal Is A Nuclear-Free Zone

As Part Of Planned Revision

Work To Be Done Through NATO; Site In Europe

LONDON (AP) — Harold Wilson said Saturday the Labor government he expects to lead will work within the North Atlantic Treaty Organization to try to establish a nuclear-free zone in central Europe.

He scorned suggestions that Britain under the Labor party would move away from her allies toward a middle or neutral position between the American and Soviet superpowers.

"We shall remain loyal to the Alliance," the 47-year-old chairman of Britain's Labor party said firmly.

"In partnership with our allies but not separately from them, we would want to do everything in our power to seize on present opportunities for removing tension between East and West."

In an interview with The Associated Press Wilson ranged over home and foreign affairs with a confidence he has seemed to transmit to the party he leads.

"There is a general expectation in Britain that Labor will win the general election whenever it is held," said Wilson.

He made plain he shares that expectation.

On Western trade with Communist nations, he said there is no difference between the Labor policy and the Conservative view that Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home outlined to President Johnson in Washington recently.

"In general we do not believe that blockade or economic sanctions are the right way to fight the struggle for competitive coexistence," Wilson said.

A new Parliament must be elected by Nov. 5. It is up to Sir Alec to pick the date. In the event of a Labor victory, Queen Elizabeth II would call Wilson to serve as prime minister and form a government.

Labor's plan for a nuclear-free zone is in line with its idealistic approach to nuclear weaponry in general.

Scandal Confined To One Engine Company

NEW YORK (AP) — Fire Commissioner Edward Thompson said Saturday the sex scandal that hit his department this week apparently was confined to one engine company.

"We've just about completed our investigation and at this point it appears that it has not gone beyond the one engine company," Thompson said.

The investigation was ordered Friday by Mayor Robert F. Wagner after Thompson suspended the captain of Engine Company 35 and four firemen on charges of allowing "streetwalkers" to invade the sleeping quarters of the firehouse, on the upper East Side.

Ken Williams

Second One 'In Mill'

Sedalia Singer Making Records

A young Sedalian, who has always had an easy way with a song and a pleasant style on the drums, is making headway in the popular record field with his Renay label release of "Johnny Loves Mary Loves Johnny" and hopes are even higher for an instrumental arrangement scheduled to be out soon.

Smiling, trim-cut Ken Williams is the 23-year-old son of Mrs. Verna Williams, 194 West Avenue. Since his days at Smith-Cotton High School, Ken has entertained many local audiences and civic groups, played an extensive list of dancing engagements, took time out for some college and Army duty and then returned to the music business in earnest.

Those who know Ken have hopes of success for him because Sedalia, of course, would like to have another recording artist on top like the city's own country and western star, Leroy Van Dyke, who incidentally is a friend of the Williams family.

Ken's "Johnny Loves Mary" was cut late last fall and released about Christmas time by the Memphis, Tenn., recording firm. It was backed up by "You'll Always Be My Love" and both tunes were original words and music written by Ken.

The record didn't achieve hit status, but got encouraging play, especially throughout Missouri. Upcoming is an instrumental in the heavy beat vein, aptly dubbed "My Very Own Trash Can."

"All I ever really wanted to do was play the drums and sing," Ken wrote in a sketch he prepared about himself when a freshman at Central Missouri State in Warrensburg. He appears determined to become a hit at it.

Ken started singing as a sophomore at Smith-Cotton with a solo part in "Joshua Fit De Battle of Jericho" in a school assembly. A week later he soloed on the old KDRO-TV "Stars of Tomorrow" program and then began voice lessons under the direction of Mrs. A. R. Beach, Sedalia.

During high school he sang at

Parking Meters Get 'Fed' Despite Fact Saturday Was Holiday

Sedalians simply like to put coins into parking meters, is the conclusion of a reporter who made a spot check in a four-block area in downtown Sedalia Saturday.

It was George Washington's birthday and was a "don't feed the meters day."

For a full block on South Osage, a block on West Fourth and for two blocks on South Ohio, the red flags were down on virtually every parking meter where cars were parked and at many meters with no cars in the parking spaces.

This was despite the fact that a story published on page one of the newspaper Thursday stated Saturday was a holiday and another story was published Friday reiterating that fact.

The Weather

Occasional snow and much colder Sunday, strong northerly winds, highs 15-20; clearing and quite cold Sunday night.

Youngster Faces Heart Surgery

George Mc Fatrich, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. George McFatrich, 1105 East Tenth, is a youngster whose life points up the importance of "Heart Week," and today — which is Heart Sunday.

"Bub," as his family calls him, was five years old last October. He suffers from an extremely rare type of heart disease. Until he was nearly two years old no evidence of such a disorder was even suspected. At a younger age he had been anemic and was checked fairly often by his family doctor. At the age of 2, Bub suddenly developed a heart murmur or "leakage." Early fears of rheumatic heart disease were laid to rest but the "leakage" continued and the search for the cause just begun.

Heart Disease Victim

In January 1960, George, Jr., began visiting the Memorial Diagnostic Heart Center in Kansas City. This is one of the many agency recipients of Heart Fund money. At the heart clinic a long series of tests and studies began. Bub hardly endeared himself to the staff either when he kicked the doctor off his feet in the darkened room where he was fluoroscoped. He gave some others a rough time too for a while. Now he's a regular pro when it comes to visiting the doctor.

After the learned physicians all regained their balance and composure they concluded Bub suffered "congenital aortic stenosis." This in simple terms means the great single out-flow vessel that supplies fresh blood for the entire body is congested. Being so much smaller reduces the amount of blood possible to be supplied his body. As his body grows larger the congestion produces a greater and greater degree of disability.

Since his first visit to Kansas City, Bub has returned twice and will continue visits there for sometime. In the spring he will undergo extensive additional tests, the most important being to "catheterize" his heart. Tubes will be sent through his blood vessels into the inside of his heart where special X-ray techniques will be utilized and where blood sampling for oxygen content will be made.

Eventually George, Jr. will undergo surgery to relieve his disorder. Surgery offers a probability of cure. Then Bub will be able to run and play and ride his bicycle as any child.

Kiwanis to Aid of a Child

Rodney Gillispie, tiny son of Mr. and Mrs. Kendrick Gillispie, 530 East Fifth, is doing fine with the equipment he needs in order to live. He owes his life to many people who knew what to do, and acted.

When Rodney was born two months ago, the family doctor immediately saw that there was something wrong with the baby and diagnosed it as Cystic Fibrosis. The doctor, Dr. Joseph Maunders, referred him to the University of Missouri Medical Center.

Cystic Fibrosis is a condition that sometimes effects many areas of the body, and for many years has been the cause of death of many children. Recently, however, through medical research, they have been able to diagnose it at birth, and if quick action is taken the babies have a chance to live. This disease resembles pneumonia but does not respond to the same treatment. It needs a special treatment of its own. It is a birth defect and the cause is unknown.

The Medical Center, in treating Rodney, advised the parents they would have a very severe problem in maintaining the child at home. But if he could get through the first two or three years of life, he would have a very good chance of growing up to live a relatively normal life.

The parents wanted the baby at home but this would require special equipment and so they turned to where so many helpless parents turn, the Children's Therapy Center. To the people of the community the Children's Therapy Center is the one place they give to freely and without question. To the parents who find themselves faced with something they don't know what to do about, the first place they think of is the Children's Therapy Center where they firmly believe they will find help.

"Could the Center do something?" they wanted to know. And the people at the Center went to work to see what could be done. Working with the family physician and Dr. Richard C. Arnold of the Community Health and Training Unit, and the local Kiwanis Club the needed equipment was purchased.

With the Sedalia Kiwanis Club financing the purchase of the equipment, which consists of an oxygen tent, compressor and a mist system attached to the compressor, there was still another need — how to operate the equipment. It is of a very delicate type and the operating of it requires different settings. So Dr. Arnold sent his public health nurse to the University of Missouri, where she was instructed in the use of the equipment. When she returned to Sedalia she taught the parents to use it so that the baby could be kept in the home.

In the future this child may require physical tehrapy or some other service offered at the Children's Therapy Center, and because the people of the area have made it possible, it will be available for him.

The first goal, however, was to keep him alive. And the close cooperation of all who were called upon and the fact that people do look to the Center where the staff is ready to serve, or knows whom to call upon for whatever is necessary, has solved a problem for the parents.

It took a lot of people and a lot of work. But out there in his special equipment, Rodney is able to breath. He can't be out of it more than 45 minutes, but he has a chance now.

On Production Staff

Sandra Rossman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. D. Rossman, 903 West Seventh, will be a member of the production staff for the University of Missouri presentation of "Cosi Fan Tutte," Lewis Stoerker, associate professor of speech and dramatic art and technical director of the University Theatre, has announced. He is scene designer and technician and has assigned Sandra, who is a senior in the College of Education, to the building and painting crew.

The opera will be sung in English at 8:15 p.m. Feb. 26-29 in the Fine Arts Building Theatre, Columbia.

'Spirit' Jug Triggers Enthusiasm

By KATHY GIBSON

The contest for the "Spirit" jug at Sacred Heart has triggered mighty bursts of enthusiasm at the pep rallies this past week. Each class is given its chance to yell with the cheerleaders and then the arduous decision of selecting the loudest group is turned over to the judges.

The Seniors in their last pep rally of the year took the honors at the Homecoming pep rally on Friday. The jug was placed in the Senior homeroom until Tuesday's pep rally when the Junior's took advantage of the occasion to win the jug for themselves.

The honor of being "Best-spirited" class is held in very high esteem and all four classes will be trying their best to capture the jug at the next pep rally which will be this Tuesday, Feb. 24.

The One Act Play contest sponsored by the Student Council will be held this Sunday evening at 8 p.m. in the Sacred Heart Auditorium. Entries from all four classes will vie for the honor of representing the school at the P.B.C.A.A. play contest in the spring.

With a fine 16-9 season record, the Sacred Heart varsity Gremlins will enter the Tipton Regionals Tuesday evening, Feb. 24. For their first game which begins at 6:30 p.m., their opponent will be a team from Ashland which has an 11-10 record. The Gremlins added their 16th win Tuesday evening by defeating Concordia 58 - 57. The team from Concordia was rated No. 1 by the Kansas City Star for this district but consistent playing and great teamwork gave the Gremlins the victory. Coach Gladbach and his squad are to be congratulated for their fine performance. The Gremlins are seeded seventh in the 16 team regionals at Tipton.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: Ellsworth and I have been married 18 years. Many of our friends have teen-age daughters with adorable figures. When the girls come downstairs to wait for their dates Ellsworth's eyes practically fall out of his head.

He always manages to get his hands on the girls and pat them in "a fatherly fashion." Last night one of the girls was dressed up for a formal party. Her hair was piled high and she looked beautiful in her white tulle strapless gown. My husband pulled her close and panted, "Honey, if I were 20 years younger I could really go for you."

The girl's father gave Ellsworth a blistering look and snapped, "Well you're not, Buddy, so forget it."

Everyone likes to have their children admired but I think my old goat goes beyond the bounds of good taste. I've told him so but he says I am jealous. May I hear from you? — KANSAS CITY WIFE.

Dear Wife: Tell your husband that a teen-age girl considers a man her father's age a prehistoric fossil. Ellsworth had better keep his hands to himself or he might well catch a klop in the chops.

Dear Ann Landers: I am 16 and going steady with a boy in my class. Stan and I are not planning on getting married next week, as most adults seem to think when they hear kids are going steady. We just happen to find the steady arrangement convenient.

The trouble is my 12-year-old sister. I accidentally picked up the downstairs telephone yesterday and heard her talking to my boy friend. She was reading him a letter which I had received that morning from a boy in Asheville.

Now I know how Stan gets all his "inside information." I have not said anything to anyone but I am very disappointed in my sister and shocked that Stan would stoop to tapping the little sneak. What is your advice?—CLARISSA.

Dear Clarissa: Let your sister know you are wise to her ratfink informing service. And make it clear that such unspeakable behavior is far more damaging to her than it is to you.

Stan doesn't sound as if he deserves much more of your time. Tell him so and send him on his way.

Dear Ann Landers: Please tell "Cast Aside" that the waitress her husband is running around with lives next door to me. And I, too, wish the big jerk would go back to his wife where he belongs. I haven't had a good night's sleep in three months on account of these two.

My bedroom window looks straight down into her living room and the view is perfect because they never draw the draperies. Sometimes these two lunatics turn on the phonograph and dance until 2:30 a.m.

I tell myself every night I won't look, but my curiousity always gets the best of me. The sooner this affair is busted up the better. Maybe if you print my letter it will help. — 20-20 VISION.

Dear Vision: Your eyes may be in great shape but you have a serious case of nose trouble—the kind for which there is no known cure. My condolences.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dr. Walker Elected By UCP Group

Dr. Joseph Walker, associated with the Central Missouri State College, Warrensburg, as assistant professor of education and counselor, was elected president of the West Central Missouri United Cerebral Palsy Association at a meeting of that organization held at Holiday Inn on Tuesday evening. Other officers elected were: Mrs. Gregory Connor, vice-president, and Mrs. Everett White, secretary, both of Sedalia, and Mrs. Bill Baker, Warrensburg, treasurer.

Harold C. Edwards, executive director for Missouri, from Columbia, gave a brief history of Cerebral Palsy in Missouri, stating that West Central Missouri was the fifth affiliate in Missouri and was organized in 1953 with 48 members. There are now 26 Cerebral Palsy centers in the state including a new center at Neosho.

He told of the UCP quarterly state board meeting to be held Feb. 21 and 22 at Tan-Tar-A Resort at Osage Beach, where Dr. Louis Belinson will speak on Federal Revenue in Missouri for the Handicapped. There will be a panel discussion, he said, on "How to Start a Sheltered Workshop." Miss Janet Vavra, registered occupational therapist at the Children's Therapy Center in Sedalia, will be one of the panelists.

Kiwanians Hear Duties Of Sheriff

Any Kiwanian who had an idea a county sheriff's duties are limited to wearing a badge and making an infrequent arrest, had it revised at the Sedalia Kiwanis club meeting at Bothwell Hotel Thursday noon.

Sherfff Emmett Fairfax of Pettis County spoke on the subjetc of the many duties the law provides a sheriff and his deputies shall perform including those in connection with three courts, serving of papers, care of the county jail and custody of prisoners, law enforcement in all its numerous phases just to name a few of the important activities.

The speaker also responded to a barrage of questions relating to his activities and was complimented on the information he gave about a subject with which too few citizens have a knowledge.

Program chairman Robert Fritz introduced the speaker.

Presiding was President M. L. Edwards.

Invocation was by A. H. Wilks. Singing was led by William Ward with Mrs. Keith Maynard as acompanist. This period was dedicated to W. F. Keyser, charter member and past president, who will celebrate his 90th birthday Sunday. The club members sang "Come All Good Fellows," and also signed a birthday greeting card to be delivered to Mr. Keyser.

George Ray, chairman of the Pancake Day activity, reported that an incomplete statement revealed $1,754 collected, and expenses of $655.67. Sale of tickets resulted in the team captained by John W. St. Clair selling the greater number. As a result his team will soon eat a steak dinner while members of the losing teams will eat beans.

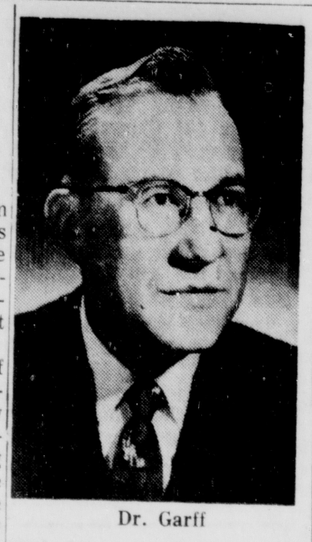
Guests were James Woods with Roy Brown, and Russell Dodge with Clarence Evans.

About Town

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Kehde and Mrs. Ralph Kinshella, operators of the Dog 'N Suds Drive In at 1611 South Limit, have returned home from Chicago where they attended the 1964 International Dog 'N Suds convention held at the Pick-Congress hotel.

Mr. Kehde was part of a panel that led a seminar on faster and improved service.

Over 800 people attended this meeting. It was announced that 450 stores are in operation with 80 to be added this year.



Dr. Garff

Knife and Fork Club To Hear Professor Talk

Dr. Royal L. Garff, of Salt Lake City, where he is a full fledged professor on the staff of the University of Utah, will be the guest of members of the Knife and Fork Club at their meeting Tuesday evening at Bothwell Hotel.

Dr. Garff is professor of speech and marketing, but what is more important is that he is in demand as a convention and after-dinner speaker and has now traveled over half a million miles to 45 states, plus Canada, making speeches on human relations before some of the largest gatherings in the country.

Dr. Garff is a graduate of the University of Utah on whose faculty he teaches. He received his degree in 1930. Later he went to Northwestern University at Evanston, Ill., for graduate work, receiving his Ph.D. in 1939. During the latter year and for two years more he was the director of retailing for Montgomery Ward Company in Chicago before joining his alma mater.

Sedalia Garden Clubs Hold Monthly Meetings

The Sedalia Garden Clubs met Friday, Feb. 14, as follows:

Garden Club No. 1, met at the home of Mrs. W. C. Cain, 1213 South Carr for a 1 o'clock luncheon with Mrs. Ed Hilderbrandt and Mrs. Fred Shaffer as assisting hostesses. There were 18 members present, including a new member, Miss Charlotte Gabbet, and three visitors, Mrs. Paul Benson, Mrs. John Blue and Mrs. A. B. Warren.

Mrs. W. E. Bingaman and Mrs. Kennie Miller were voted into the club as new members.

Mrs. Cain was in charge of the program and the first part of the program was given over to the observance of the World Day of Prayer. Mrs. Tracy York gave a reading which was followed by a prayer by Mrs. Everett Stumpf and then the Lord's Prayer in unison.

The president, Mrs. Emory Herrick, announced the Council meeting which will be at 1 p.m., April 10, at the First Methodist Church, the State Convention at Cape Girardeau on May 5, 6 and 7.

The club voted to help sponsor the Antique Sale and Show in Sedalia on April 10, 11 and 12, by selling tickets.

Mrs Harry Kehl discussed the topic of the day, "History and Culture of the Cherry Tree." She also had for display an arrangement to bring out the theme of the cherry tree, and this was a very unusual arrangement, including George Washington and his hatchet.

Club members were asked to notify the president of any unusual trees they knew of, as the council is planning a tour to see unusual trees.

Garden Club No. 2, met at the home of Mrs. Odis Nowlin, with assisting hostesses Mrs. R. A. Malone and Mrs. P. C. Owen.

A dessert luncheon was served to 19 members and two guests, Mrs. Blanche Harris, mother of Mrs. John Ryan, and Mrs. Camilla Knox, who was the speaker.

The president, Mrs. Theodore Gardner, presided over the business meeting. The club welcomed back and reinstated a former member, Mrs. E. C. Snavely, 908 South Grand.

Programs for February and March have been exchanged and Mrs. H. C. Feuers, in charge of the topic "Biblical Gardens" introduced Mrs. Camilla Knox, who rephrased the topic to "Gardens of the Bible." She listed many gardens and quoted passages mentioning certain herbs and flowers of Biblical times.

Mrs. Knox said she thought it was the duty of every person to make Bible stories live for children, and she quoted Genesis, 8th Chapter, 22nd verse, "While the earth remains, seed time and harvest, cold and heat, summer and winter, day and night, shall not cease."

Garden Club No. 3, met at the home of Mrs. Clarence L. Carter, 700 South Beacon, with Mrs. H. C. Sammons as assisting hostess. There were three guests, Mrs. L. T. Raabe, Mrs. Lloyd Pharris and Mrs. Neal Plantz.

Mrs. M. W. Ellis, president, conducted the meeting and reported on the state convention which had been changed to May 5, 6 and 7.

Mrs. Carter announced the Garden Pilgrimage in June would be on outstanding trees in Sedalia.

Program chairman Mrs. L. H. Hodges, who gave an interesting program on "The Cherry Tree, History and Culture." She stated that the very beginning of the cherry tree is not known, but that early history and literature makes mention of many varieties of the cherry tree. Both the fruit bearing cherry trees and the plum trees belong to the rose family.

Cherry wood, she said, is used for furniture and various types of lumber. Several hundreds of varieties of the sour or pie cherry are cultivated and grow abundantly in eastern United States. Many diseases attack cherry trees.

Ornamental varieties as the shrub, flowering cherry, the rapid growing Japanese cherry trees in Washington, D. C. and the ever green cherry native of California that is grown for hedges are well known.

Mrs. Jones commented on varities of cherry trees in other countries and their uses as in flower arrangements by the Japanese. Many varieties are not edible.

Whether by fact or fiction, she said, the cherry tree is part of American history.

Garden Club No. 4 met at the home of Mrs. Clara Beckley, 1113 Ware Ave., at 1 o'clock, Feb. 14.

The hostess, assisted by Mrs. Robert Mullen and Mrs. C. R. Walker served a dessert to 21 members.

Mrs. Clara Beckley, president, opened the business meeting with a poem "Prescription for the Blues."

The club voted to join the other clubs in sponsoring an Antique Show to be held in April at Convention Hall.

In exhibits "Interpretation of Washington's Birthday" Mrs. Beckley was awarded first. Mrs. James Morton was given first under Horticulture.

Mrs. Ida Harriman, program chairman, introduced Mrs. Rose Hausam who gave a most interesting and informative talk on the Origin and Culture of the Cherry Tree. Special mention was given to the Japanese Cherry Trees in Washington, D. C. Pictures were shown of these trees in bloom. She also told of several of our other flowering trees and the care and origin of them.

After the club adjourned a bake sale and white elephant sale was held.

The March meeting will be with Mrs. Grayce Ramlow, 714 West Fourth.

Garden Club No. 5, met at the home of Mrs. M. L. Edwards with Mrs. Blanch Scott as assisting hostess. A 1 o'clock luncheon was served to 15 members.

Since it was "World Day of Prayer," Mrs. Carl Wehrli, who presided over the business session, presented Mrs. P. L. Strole, who opened the meeting with a prayer.

An interesting and informative discussion was given by Mrs. R. L. Haggard on "The History and Culture of the Cherry Tree."

The exhibit committee announced the following awards: "Interpretation of Washington's Birthday" with Mrs. James Barnes, first; Mrs. Blanch Scott, second and Mrs. P. L. Strole, third.

Garden Club No. 7 met at the home of Mrs. Phillip Hoffman, 825 West Sixth, with Mrs. O. A. Potter assisting hostess. There were 21 members and one guest present.

Exhibits were Interpretation of George Washington, with Mrs. E. J. Thomas, first; Mrs. Joe Wilson, second and Mrs. Mary Hall, third. Mrs. Robert Neuman received honorable mention.

In horticulture, Mrs. Lon Slaton received second for the Jerusalem cherry.

Mrs. John St. Clair was in charge of the program, who gave a very interesting talk on the history and culture of the cherry tree.

Garden Club No. 8 met with Mrs. Melvin Marriott, 2803 West 11th. A dessert luncheon was served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. George Sparks.

Following the social period the meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Ernest Martin, who read a poem, "The Greatest Task" written by Barbara C. Ryberg.

Mrs. Lewis Smith of Otterville was welcomed as a new member.

In the exhibit for the day "Interpretation of Washington's Birthday" Mrs. Sparks received first and Mrs. R. O. Smith, second.

Mrs. Smith presented Mrs. Walter Alexander, who had the topic for the day, "The Cherry Tree — History and Culture." She stated that the cherry tree was known to exist in the very early history of Asia and Europe. Cherries were brought to this country as young plants or seeds.

The sweet cherries which had origin in Eastern Asia, make large trees but need a mild climate and are therefore planted in protected areas in this country.

The sour cherries grew in Western Asia and Southeastern Europe and are wildly planted in this country.

The most important cherries chosen for their beauty, are species, varieties and hybrids from China, Korea and Japan, many of which are lumped in the popular mind as Japanese cherries.

Asian cherries were brought to America nearly 100 years ago but early importations did not succeed too well. All the varieties now widely grown here were brought in since 1900.

There are many cherries, some of which grow wild, such as the black cherries of American forests which are often undesirable because of caterpillars which feed on them; choke cherries, wild red cherries, and others.

Flowering cherries are not hardy in the far north but are beautiful flowering trees in the areas in which they do well.

Cherry trees need care and should be sprayed, lightly pruned and fed proper food requirements to produce well.

3 Pettis Countians Inducted Into Army

Three young Pettis County men left Monday for U.S. Army service after being inducted through hte local Selective Service board.

They were: Arthur W. Worledge, 903 East Fifth; Melvin O Monsees, Route 1, Hughesville; and Larry D. Stevenson, Route 1, Smithton. All are 21 years of age.

Sedalia

the various civic clubs, garden and music clubs and various ceremonies. He was a member of the school glee clubs and choruses and his senior year took a lead role in the musical show "Li'l Abner" presented in the spring.

His first entry into commercial music was with the old "Starlighters," a five piece group which enjoyed considerable popularity at dances in the Sedalia area. He's played with several leading bands since and headed groups of his own.

Ken's voice won superior ratings at school voice contests in Sedalia, Marshall and state contests in Columbia and he also picked up blue ribbons at the Missouri State Fair music contests. In 1957 he sang with the Lou Breeze band of Chicago for a show in front of the grandstand at the fair and for a while had his own "TV Teen-Town" on KDRO-TV. When he graduated from Smith-Cotton, Ken went to CMS on a voice scholarship. He attended CMS one year then left to take up dance band dates again, playing for a year and then volunteering for induction into the Army.

While in the service, Ken topped an Army talent contest where he was stationed on Okinawa and went on an extensive tour of military posts throughout southeast Asia before his Army duty was completed. The talent company, the Army's best in the Pacific, toured Japan, Formosa, Korea, Viet Nam, Thailand among other outposts.

After Army duty, Ken joined the Jimmy Knapp band in 1962 and toured the central United States for nine months. Engagements included Lincoln, Neb., Clovis and Hobbs, N. M., Oklahoma City, Dallas and a 10-week stint at the Kansas City Club.

Williams now makes his home at Kennett, Mo., has his own five-piece dance band and is playing throughout southern Missouri, Arkansas and the Memphis area. He picked Kennett for a temporary home because it's convenient to the engagements being played and close to Memphis, where he has been doing his recording.

Ken's mother is clerk of the county Selective Service board and has no misgivings over the traveling life her son must lead in the music field.

"He's always wanted to sing," she said. "He's single and has no ties; I think this is the time for him to do it."

Bunceton Man Found Burned In His Trailer

Robert L. Martin, 63, Cooper County farmer ,was found burned to death in his trailer home near Bunceton Friday. It was believed that the fire occurred about 7 p.m. Thursday. The fire was not discovered until Friday morning. Mr. Martin lived alone.

He was born, Dec. 15, 1900, in Cooper County, son of the late Daniel Boone and Susan Hunt Martin.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Clarence M. (Allyne) Phillips, Kansas City; Miss Carolyn Martin, Kansas City; a son, Roger Elmerlee Martin, Kansas City; and one sister, Mrs. C. L. Baughman, California.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Sunday at the Richards Funeral Home, Tipton, with the Rev. Ivan Dameron, Clarksburg, officiating.

Pallbearers will be Pete Phillips, Warren Phillips, William Kimball, Walter Barron, William Arnold and Porter Long.

Burial will be in the Pisgah Cemetery.

Denny Elected Chairman At Red Cross Dinner Meet

James T. Denny, Sedalia, was elected chairman of the West Central Association of the American Red Cross which is composed of four counties, Benton, Henry, Johnson and Pettis, at an organizational dinner meeting Thursday night, Feb. 20, at Bothwell Hotel. Chris Schevensen, Warrensburg, was elected vice-president, and Mrs. Eula Spencer, Sedalia, was elected secretary.

The speaker of the eveing was Joseph R. Steward, an attorney, Jackson County Red Cross, chairman of the International Activities committee and National Fund chairman.

Stewart stated that the Red Cross was 100 years old in 1963 and that there have been many changes. There have emerged two ideologies — Communism, where all is through the state, and Democracy, which is committed to the individuals. We must never lose that perspective, he said.

While the Red Cross was 100 years ago, it was about 64 years ago the Clara Barton was running around Washington, D. C., with her long skirts tucked up and with a basket of bandages, and that was the beginning of the American Red Cross. Now there are two and a half million volunteers. The American people have the American Red Cross do things for them.

The International Red Cross, he pointed out, is the one avenue of communication with countries where there are no other communications, where there is no communications between the governments. It is the Red Cross that has taken care of the refugees from the many countries, the speaker said.

The Red Cross board, he explained, reaches down to the grass roots. We have had a growing together. Oceans used to be barriers. That is no longer true. We can converse immediately and send pictures. There is a closeness of communities, there is no longer rural and urban, it has become one, and communities are growing together.

This shows that the Red Cross is thinking ahead of its time in grouping its chapters together, for the volunteers of each chapter in the West Central Association will be ready to go to the aid of another chapter in case of need or emergency.

The money given to the Red Cross by the American people goes to services for the American people he said. One best known is disaster service. There must be a five family disaster before the National Red Cross takes over but there is help from the local chapter. There will be uniform services now for the whole area.

The Red Cross, he said, is a service organization and that is its primary function. It isn't a fund raising organization. He urged that the public be informed about these services, and stated that the chapters will be better ready to serve the people of the entire areas a a group.

Maurice Hogan, a member of the Midwest Advisory Council, served as chairman organizing the four chapters, and presided over the meeting.

He introduced, the speaker, and also Mrs. Dorothy Staley, Red Cross field representative, Midwestern Area, St. Louis, who spoke briefly. Mrs. Staley pointed out that there have been changes in the program and changes in the services since the beginning of the Red Cross a century ago. Today it is necessary for the Red Cross to get in step with what is needed in communities. In the early years the chapters had no reason to get together, but now there is a feeling to need to work together, to plan how to give a little better service—and, said Mrs. Staley, the first step is tonight. She told the group they must be prepared to move even faster and with the banding together it was turning an idea into a reality.

James Denny

The signing of the charter for the organization took place after the four chairmen, one from each county, Roy Freund, Benton County; William R. Price, Henry County; Chris Schevensen, Johnson County and J. T. Denny, Pettis County, were installed by Rev. Hervert Woodruff, pastor of the First Christian Church, Warrensburg, and Red Cross home service chairman.

From Johnson County, also, was C. W. Shepperd and from Pettis County, M. F. Hogan.

Others at the head table introduced were Bernard Bolstad, Red Cross Field Director, Whiteman Air Force Base; Mrs. Joseph Stewart, Mrs. Maurice Hogan and Mrs. James Denny.

Also introduced were Mrs. Spencer, executive secretary of the Pettis Chapter and her as- Mrs. T. H. Yount, chairman of staff aids and Mrs. Edward Hoffman, chairman of Gray Ladies, both in uniform, and Mr. and Mrs. William Hurlbut, who served on the arrangements committee.

The Invocation was given by Rev. Woodruff.

Dinner music was by Carl Bopp with accordion.

Reversal Is Noted In Cardiovascular Disease Death Rate

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Heart Association reported Saturday that the upward trend in cardiovascular disease deaths among middle-aged men had been reversed for the first time.

Dr. John J. Sampson, association president, said there had been a six per cent decrease in the 1962-63 year of cardiovascular disease deaths among men between 45 and 64.

He noted that deaths among men in this age group had been moving upward for years in contrast to a steadily declining rate among women of the same age.

He added, however, that diseases of the heart and blood vessels still cause more than half of all deaths in the United States each year.

11 People Perish

CHERAW, S.C. (AP)—Eleven members of a family perished early Saturday when fire flashed through their three-room rural home eight miles south of here.

The dead were Moses James, 36, a Cheraw furniture worker, his wife, Mary Agnes, 36, and their nine children ranging in age from one to 15. All were Negroes.

Rescue squadmen, firemen and neighbors stood by helplessly as the flames leapt quickly through the small house. Several other families lived nearby but none noticed the fire until it was too late to save the James family.

Circuit Court

A motion for a new trial was filed Friday in Circuit Court on behalf of Emmett R. Langley, whose driver's license was revoked Nov. 9, 1963, by the state Department of Revenue and the revocation upheld this week by Circuit Judge Frank W. Hayes.

Langley's motion, filed by attorney O. E. Brown, contends the Circuit Court erred on nine points in the decision Wednesday to uphold the revocation.

The department's Safety Responsibility Unit lifted Langley's drivers license for 365 days dating from Nov. 9.

Accidents

A 1962 Oldsmobile, driven by Mary Sue Broaddus, 28, 2617 North Woodlawn, damaged a parked car in a minor accident in the 100 block of East 11th at 8:45 a. m. Saturday, according to police.

The parked car, a 1964 Buick, was owned by Oliver Wendell Durdin, an ITT Kellogg employee of Windsor.

Police listed damage to the left rear fender of the Durdin car and to the right front, fender and bumper of the Broaddus car.

A cigarette was blamed for setting fire to a chair at the Royal Hotel, 113 East Third, at 11:45 p. m. Friday.

Sedalia firemen quickly doused the minor blaze and estimated the damage to the chair at $25.

Two drivers, who dozed at the wheel, escaped injury in separate accidents in this area early Saturday morning. Highway Patrol Trooper Pete Stohr investigated both mishaps.

Trooper Stohr said Richard Middleton, 20, Route 2, Sedalia, was eastbound on Highway 52 when his car travelled through a boulder-filled ditch for approximately 300 feet.

Middleton's car, a 1963 Pontiac convertible, stayed upright on its wheels, but was heavily damaged. The accident occurred at 12:10 a. m. about four miles west of Highway 65 on 52.

Oscar Lampton, 45, Hughesville, dozed momentarily and his car travelled some 400 feet through a ditch and then flipped over on its top. This mishap occurred at 6 a. m. one mile west of Dresden on Highway 50, Trooper Stohr said.

Lampton's auto, a 1955 Chevrolet, left the road on the first curve west of Dresden and his car also was extensively damaged.

The intersection of Broadway and Hancock was the scene of a two-car collision at 4:09 p.m. Saturday.

Involved were a 1951 Buick, driven by Ruby Brunckhorst, 903 East Seventh, and a 1952 Dodge, driven by David D. Hall, 1509 East 13th. According to police reports, the Hall car collided with the rear of the Brunckhorst machine.

Mrs. Brunckhorst reported to police that she had received minor injuries.

Hall was issued a police summons for careless and imprudent driving and is to appear in police court Feb. 27.

Police investigated a two-car collision located in the 700 block of South Limit at 11:45 a. m. Saturday.

A 1959 Rambler, driven by Harry A. Goldberg, 1809 West Tenth was in collision with a 1964 Chevrolet truck being driven by Kenneth L. Glenn, Route 5, who according to police investigation, was making a right turn.

Glenn received a police summons for careless and imprudent driving and is to appear in police court Feb. 24.

Police Reports

Kenneth Vansell, 1217 East 10th, reported to police that a chrome strip was pried from the side of his 1955 auto sometime after 9:30 p. m. Friday.

Robert Salmon, 1405 South Osage, reported the theft of about $50 from his billfold sometime Friday night. The theft was not noticed until Saturday afternoon at which time he contacted police.

Verrell Martin reported the theft of two hub caps from his 1960 Chevrolet sometime Friday night to police Saturday. The theft took place while his car was parked in front of his home at 2403 Kay, reports said.

Magistrate Court

Carl Gene Williams, Vinita, Okla., expired trailer license, pleaded guilty and was fined $5 plus court costs.

Fires In City

The Sedalia Fire Department received an alarm at 5:55 p.m. Friday to Housel Park. Upon arrival no fire could be found and the call was deemed a false alerm.

A furnace putting out what the occupants of a house at 602 South Moniteau considered to be to much heat, resulted in a call to the Sedalia Fire Department at 9:04 p. m. Friday. However upon investigation no fire was found.

The Sedalia Fire Department responded to an alarm at 2330 South Marvin at 12:48 p.m. Saturday where a trash fire was in progress on a vacant lot. The fire was extinguished with no property damage listed.

A call to 23rd and Kentucky at 3:39 p.m. turned out to be a grass fire, the second for the day, Saturday. Burning trash was listed as the cause with no property damage resulting.

Pope Paul Ends A Lenten Spiritual Retreat Saturday

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI ended a Lenten spiritual retreat Saturday and resumed his normal daily routine.

Since Feb. 16, the Roman Catholic pontiff had been in seclusion inside the Vatican, cutting off all but the most pressing church business. During the retreat he mediated, prayed and listened to daily sermons by the Rev. Bernard Haring, German theologian and a leading progressive at the Vatican Ecumenical Council.

Salary Raise Okayed In Goulart's Decree

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — President Joao Goulart signed a decree Saturday granting a 100 per cent increase in minimum salaries throughout Brazil.

The new minimum increases range from 42,000 cruzeiros ($30) a month in Rio de Janeiro, Sao Paulo and Brasilia to 18,000 cruzeiros ($12.86) a month in the northeast state of Piaui.

First Chain Reaction

LYNCHBURG, Va. (AP)—The Babcock & Wilcox Co. said Saturday its test reactor has achieved its first sustained nuclear chain reaction.

The reactor is the only privately owned and operated test reactor in the eastern United States, and is the largest in the world of the swimming pool type.

The reactor will be used primarily for company programs to reduce the cost of generating electricity and propelling ships with the atom, said R. H. Harrison, a company vice president.

Missouri History Is Told

W. A. McVey and Pat Clark presented the program at the Women's Democratic Club of Pettis County at a meeting held Tuesday, Feb. 18, at 8 p.m., at the new Labor Hall, 1102 East Third.

McVey, in line with the proclamation of Mayor L. L. Studer, declaring the month of February as Historical Month, gave an interesting account of the early history of Missouri, while Pat Clark, artist, illustrated with his paint brush. McVey stated his notes were from the book written by Richard E. Brownlee, secretary of the Missouri Historical Society, who will be the speaker at the Pettis County Historical Society dinner to be held Feb. 26, which is open to the public.

The meeting was presided over by Mrs. E. J. Davis, president, and the pledge of allegiance was led by Mrs. W. E. Bruce. A bylaws committee was appointed as follows: Mrs. Lester Smith, Mrs. B. A. Fischer and Mrs. P. J. McGirk.

The membership drive is being held with prizes being offered to those bringing in the most members.

Mrs. A. J. Gregory as program chairman, introduced the men who presented the program and their wives.

Two Democrat candidates were there, Mrs. Opal Hugelman and Mrs. Rosie Robb.

Door prizes were won by Mrs. Ruth Lindsey, Mrs. Marlene Neidholt, Mrs. Lester Smith and Mrs. Evelyn Rabourn.

A social hour followed at which time refreshments were served by Mrs. B. A. Fischer, Mrs. Edgar Neighbors, Mrs. J. W. Kraus and Mrs. A. J. Gregory.

Panama Problem Began In 1903

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
AP Diplomatic Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Panama Canal crisis really began back in 1903, as former Ambassador Joseph S. Farland sees it, and has been 61 years coming to a climax.

Now, Farland says, the time is long overdue for the United States and Panama to stop playing around with fringe issues and meet the central problem head on.

The central problem as he presents it—and he was a foremost U.S. expert for more than three years—is Panama's demand for a canal partnership with the United States. The former envoy stops short of saying this demand should be met. But he insists the United States should face up to it.

The demand is at the heart of the dispute which exploded into violence along the Canal Zone a month ago and could erupt again if diplomacy fails to keep tempers calm. The explosion left no doubt that thousands of Panamanians, stirred up here and there by Castro Communist agitators, are extremely dissatisfied with the treaty arrangements under which the United States has absolute control of the canal, its surrounding zone, and all its operations.

Farland, 49, a West Virginian, discussed the prolonged and continuing crisis in an exclusive interview with The Associated Press, giving the first detailed exposition of views he had previously presented to the government during his service as ambassador.

He resigned last August after becoming in 3½ years the most popular U.S. representative ever to serve in Panama. He was less popular in official Washington where, in efforts to change policy or personnel, he had trod on toes in the State and Defense departments and the Agency for International Development and Central Intelligence Agency.

Farland recently charged that the White House had "passed the word" at the time of his return that he was to be ignored by top policy makers. He was not given the customary debriefing — final consultation — and he found all doors shut against him. Nor was he consulted on the January outburst in Panama, though he has been regarded by many State Department officials as a first-rate envoy with excellent contacts — perhaps the best any U.S. citizen has — in the Panamanian government.

Here are key questions and answers drawn from Farland's experience and first - hand knowledge on what's wrong between the United States and Panama:

Q. What is behind hte crisis between the U.S. and Panama?

A. You have to look back into history. The trouble really started in 1903 when we signed the treaty which gave us rights to build the canal. Panama had been a part of Colombia. We had offered Colombia a treaty, but their assembly adjourned without acting on it. A few months later Panama declared its independence, and we recognized it.

That was on Nov. 6, 1903. On the 18th we had a signed and sealed treaty with Panama. We had helped Panama become independent, and the treaty we made with Panama was very different from the treaty we had offered Colombia.

Q. What were the differences?

A. There were four that were important. First, Colombia would have retained sovereignity over the canal. But in the treaty with Panama sovereign control of the Canal Zone was given to the United States.

Second, the term offered Colombia was, I believe, 99 years plus the right of renewal. The treaty we signed with Panama gave us the canal in perpetuity.

Third, the width of the Canal Zone proposed to Colombia was six miles wide. The zone we got from Panama is 10 miles wide.

Fourth, we offered Colombia a judicial arrangement including Colombian courts, U.S. courts and mixed courts. Under the Panama treaty we have U.S. courts in the Canal Zone.

Q. Do you mean that Panamanians have been objecting on these points — the absolute and perpetual U.S. control of the canal — since 1903?

A. The objections began practicallly before the ink was dry on the document. And the Panamanians are still concerned, vitally, nationalistically, by these very points.

Q. What about the United States' attitude toward the canal?

A. The canal quite suddenly changed our whole position in the world. It was a great engineering achievement. We succeeded, you know, where the French had failed. The French were the great builders of that time, and they had dug the Suez Canal. The success in Panama was an important contribution to the development of U.S prestige as a world power.

Q. Are the Panamanians antagonistic toward the people in the zone?

A. By and large, no. But problems develop, not because of majorities but usually because of minorities. The 4th of July Avenue is one of the dividing lines in Panama City and there are feelings of ultra-nationalism on both sides of that avenue.

Q. To what extent do you think personal feelings on either side may be responsible for the tremendous emotional outbursts of the kind that recently disrupted U.S.-Panamanian relations?

A. Again, take a quick look at the past. We practiced segregation in the Canal Zone up to about 1955 (when the 1903 treaty was amended in Panama's favor). We had in the zone two systems of payment. A U.S. citizen was paid in gold; a non-U.S. citizen in silver. Stores, schools, toilets, all sorts of things were segregated. There were gold stores and silver stores. That system was a source of trouble.

Q. What does the canal mean to Panama financially?

A. The original annual payment was $250,000. That has been raised twice and is now $1,930,000. But as the informed Panamanian is well aware, that is only a small fraction of what the canal means to the gross national product of Panama. Panama's annual increment as a result of salaries, wages, purchases and the like is about $85,000,000.

Q. How does the U.S. aid program fit in?

A. Until a few years ago it was mainly a small technical assistance program. It became large about 1960 when Washington put new emphasis on loans and grants for development under the Agency for International Development and later the Alliance for Progress. (Aid to Panama has been running about $6 million a year recently).

Q What is your criticism of the aid program in Panama?

A. My basic concern is very simple. There has been too much emphasis on so-called social development to the detriment of economic developments.

Q. Can you be more specific?

A. For one thing, we have too many lending agencies in Washington. They compete against each other. We have too many grandiose concepts of what is needed. We are building highways in Latin America when all we need is a trail, an all-weather trail.

My emphasis was on the farm-to-market roads, actually little all-weather trails. There are few beasts of burden in Panama and much of the country cargo is carried on the back of the campesino (peasant). We got a road built into the village of Sona, in a rice growing area, at a cost of less than $5,000 a mile. This area is now part of the life-stream of Panama and will start producing more rice than it consumse.

Q. What about aid in education?

A. We are building schools but we fail to put textbooks in those schools. Only within the recent past has a book program been undertaken. I complained about this deficiency to every congressman I could, to the aid program, and USIA.

Q. Were the Panamanian children getting any books at all?

A. The Communists were sending in books. They were used to some degree in buildings that we were constructing.

Q. What happened in Panama between your departure in August and the rioting in January. What happened to cause the rioting?

A. I don't know all that happened. I had been much concerned about the fact that the progress we had made had merely changed the political climate to make it more favorable to the adjustment of differences. But the basic differences were, and are, still there. They're not all one-sided, either.

Q. You enjoyed the national popularity in Panama and the people evidently thought you respected their aspirations. Do you think they feel the United States respects their aspirations?

A. I don't agree, and I didn't agree, as the government of Panama was well aware, with all of their demands or positions. But I felt and feel that basically in order to work out any understanding we must meet the basic problems head-on. This applies to both the Panamanians and the Americans.

Q. There has been some suggestion that there are too many U.S. authorities in Panama—the ambassador, the commander of U.S. military forces, the governor of the Canal Zone. What do you think?

A. We have U.S. brass busting out all over. One recommendation that I made years ago was that there should be one U.S. voice in Panama and the zone. When I was ambassador I was on the best of terms with both the governor and the military commander. But that kind of relationship has not always been true and would not necessarily be in the future. Anyway, the Canal Zone is the problem between the United States and Panama, and in any great activity one voice is essential.

Q. What do you see as the solution to the problem of divided authority?

A. In my opinion the ambassador will eventually have to exercise that voice. I think he will have to have some policy powers in the zone along with his duties as the envoy of the United States to the government of Panama. The U.S. citizens in the zone, about 16,000 of them, generally feel the ambassador is Washington's ambassador to the zone, though of course he is not.

The necessity for changing the ambassador's role will decrease radically if a second canal is built because then there would be far fewer U.S. citizens. The complement would be maybe 500 people as against 16,000.

Q. How would this come about?

A. There would no need to operate the present canal if a sea level canal were opened. A sea level canal would not have all the locks and equipment that the present canal has. I understand it would be over 1,000 feet wide and ships would sail through without even the assistance of pilots. This, incidentally, is a matter of great concern to Panama. Think of the drop in the number of individuals who would be employed.

Q. As the situation now stands the Canal Zone runs through the heart of Panama and the country exists on either side of it. Do you see any advantage in working toward a kind of partnership arrangement between the U.S. and Panama?

A. The concept of partnership is what the Panamanians want. They are not interested in having an international body take over the canal. They say "This is between the United States and Panama. If you give up your rights here, this is ours."

Q. What would partnership actually mean?

A. In a practical sense, it would mean a greater return to Panamanians. These are things they look to—a greater return to their government, a greater participation in the operation in terms of personnel, and a voice in the management. This is what they have been striving for over the years.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Sunday, Feb. 23, 1964. There are 312 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1847, Gen. Zachary Taylor and his invading army were in an unfavorable position on the plain north of Saltillo when he received word Mexican Gen. Santa Anna was approaching. Outnumbered 3-1, Taylor withdrew to a pass 30 miles north and held the pass until night fell. Taylor became a national hero, having held his ground and forcing the larger Mexican army to withdraw.

On this date in 1784, the Rhode Island General Assembly authorized emancipation of slaves.

In 1927, President Calvin Coolidge signed a bill establishing a federal radio commission.

In 1945, U.S. Marines planted the American flag on Mt.

In 1953, Britain granted amnesty to more than 14,000 World War II deserters from her armed forces.

Ten years ago—Asst. Secretary of State Walter Robertson told congressmen that 15 million Chinese had been liquidated through execution and starvation by the Communists in consolidating their control of China.

Five years ago — A British-Greek-Turkish agreement was announced, providing for the creation of the republic of Cyprus by Feb. 19, 1960.

One year ago — President Betancourt of Venezuela ended a four-day state visit to the United States and received a pledge of U.S. support in resisting Communist efforts to overthrow his regime.

World News Glimpses

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — Vietnamese armored vehicles fought their way through heavy Communist ground fire Wednesday to recover the bodies of an American pilot and his Vietnamese copilot.

The two fliers were strafing guerrillas 90 miles southwest of Saigon when groundfire hit their single - engine fighter-bomber. The plane crashed and exploded.

CAIRO (AP) — The United States has denied a report it made an emergency airlift of military equipment to aid Ethiopia in its border clashes with Somalia.

An informed source in Cairo said Wednesday night at least three U.S. transports flew arms and ammunition to Ethiopia from American stocks in West Germany after receiving an urgent request from Emperor Haile Selassie's government.

State department officials in Washington said they knew nothing about any weapons airlift to Ethiopia.

Meets To Discuss Tea

Phi Phi Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, met Wednesday, Feb. 19, at 8 p.m. with Miss Sharon Bartlett, 2422 North Woodlawn Drive.

Invitations for a Spring Rushing Tea were discussed at this meeting. This tea will be held March 8 at one of the member's home. Membership in Beta Sigma Phi is by invitation only. The sorority is composed of students, business girls, and homemakers. Chapters meet twice monthly in different members homes. Phi Phi Chapter meets on the first and third Wednesdays. A cultural program is given at each meeting by the girls. Special speakers are obtained during the year to give the programs added zest and appeal.

Socials, such as nights out to dinner, are held often and are enjoyed very much by all the members. All girls receiving invitations to this tea are urged to attend and develop new friends and interests.

A special meeting will be held Wednesday, Feb. 26, to prepare the tea invitations for mailing. This meeting will be held with Martha Sievers.

Fire Truck Stolen From Scene of Blaze

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—Firemen battled a blaze which damaged three buildings Wednesday night. Seven fire trucks arrived at the scene in a neighborhood shopping center. Suddenly, there were only six trucks.

An alarm was sounded for a stolen fire truck. It later was found abandoned about a mile away. Authorities said several small boys were seen to leave the vehicle.

In Conference Game

S-C Tigers Whip Bulldogs, 58-50

The Smith-Cotton Tigers, with but one conference game left this season, boosted their record to four wins and five losses Friday night, downing the Rolla Bulldogs, 58-50, in Central Missouri Conference action at Rolla. The Tigers will have a chance to even their conference record when they meet the Jefferson City Jays, Feb. 28.

Rolla proved to be the more aggressive of the two teams in the first quarter as the Bulldogs moved ahead of the Tigers. However, in the second quarter, Smith-Cotton began to build up steam. At intermission, Rolla held only a slim two-point margin.

With an explosive burst of scoring power the Tigers really went to town in the third quarter, pushing 20 points through the loop. Rolla trailed sadly, enabling Smith-Cotton to pick up needed points. The Bulldogs managed to get one point over the Tigers in the final stanza, but by this time their efforts were futile.

Barry Wallace sparked Smith-Cotton's scoring with 19 points, on nine field goals and one charity toss. Perez led the scoring attack for Rolla with 18 points, on seven field goals and four free throws.

The junior varsity Tigers came up on the short end, pointwise, of the B contest, as the Bulldogs slipped past them, 38-36. Barry Morton powered the Tigers' scoring with six points.

Smith-Cotton has two games left on their schedule before going to the regional tournament. On Tuesday they will meet Marshall in a non-conference battle at Marshall. Next Friday they are matched with Jefferson City, in a CMC game.

SACRED HEART HOMECOMING — The Homecoming spirit was greatly increased by "Skin the Wildcat" day held last Friday. Students paying a dime were allowed to purchase a piece of the Wildcat symbolizing the opponents' mascot, and it was then worn for the remainder of the day and to the game that evening. The Gremlins won their game that evening and the entire student body enjoyed the original idea! Pictured from left to right: Mary Lou Moran who drew the Wildcat; Kathy Gibson and Carol Schoenen, two varsity cheerleaders who helped students "skin" the cat.

Leeton Loses 2 Games To Knob Noster

Knob Noster romped over Leeton in both varsity and B games Friday night at Knob Noster. The varsity score was 66-28.

Knob Noster stole the lead during the first quarter and kept it throughout the remainder of the game with the exception of a late rally by Leeton in the fourth stanza of play. Fourth quarter play saw Leeton outscore Knob Noster by four points.

Rife lead the scoring for Knob Noster, hitting 16 points, while Stone hit 10 for Leeton.

In B competition Knob Noster out manuvered Leeton to win the game 54-28. Scoring for Knob Noster was by Ficken, hitting 15 points. Leading the battle for Leeton was Upright scoring nine points.

Regional playing begins Monday night at Knob Noster with Knob Noster seeing action in the opener.

Score by quarters:

Knob Noster	15	21	17	13—66
Leeton	5	3	3	17—28

Individual scoring: Knob Noster—Rife, 16; Rhinehart, 15; Kuhlman, 7; Ficken, 6; Wharton, 6; Auvil, 4; Dull, 4; Hughes, 4; Moore, 2; Tebbenkamp, 2. Leeton—Stone, 10; Harris, 5; Mudd, 5; Teter, 5; Shumate, 3.

Snead Holds A Slim Lead In PGA Tourney

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (AP)—On a rainy, windy day, with a putter still misbehaving, Sam Snead shot a disappointing one-over-par 73 Saturday but still led by two strokes in the PGA Seniors Golf Tournament.

Slammin' Sam finished the third round with a 208 total, eight under par for the 54 holes, and lost one stroke of his margin as Leland (Duke) Gibson came up with a 72 for 210.

E. J. (Dutch) Harrison moved into closer contention with a 69 that left him three strokes off the pace with a 211.

"In three rounds, I have not sunk a putt eight feet long," Snead said as he left the 18th green on which he had just dropped a three-footer for a birdie 3. This was the only cheerful thing that happened to Sam all day.

Saturday's play was delayed for an hour by a downpour. The first foursomes finally shoved off in the rain and it continued to come down for two hours.

The rain had stopped when Snead and other leaders started but bossy fairways and greens made the going difficult. In late afternoon, a rising wind became a further handicap.

Pintos Edge Stover In Loop Game

In their last game of the season, the California Pintos gave the Stover Bulldogs a sound drubbing, 94-60, Friday night. The game was a Tri-Couty Conference contest, played at California.

California really took advantage of the first quarter to make their mark in the scoring column as they dumped in 35 tremendous points. In the second stanza, the Pintos again topped the Bulldogs, although the margin was not as high. At half-time, California boasted a 29-point lead.

The Pintos managed to run over Stover for the third time in as many periods in the third quarter, but the Bulldogs, realizing that they were definitely on the losing side, managed to push two more points through the loop in the last stanza. However, California already had sewed up the contest.

Top gun for the Pintos was Larry Gerlach with 23 points. The Bulldogs' scoring effort was boosted by Charles Lieby with 13 points.

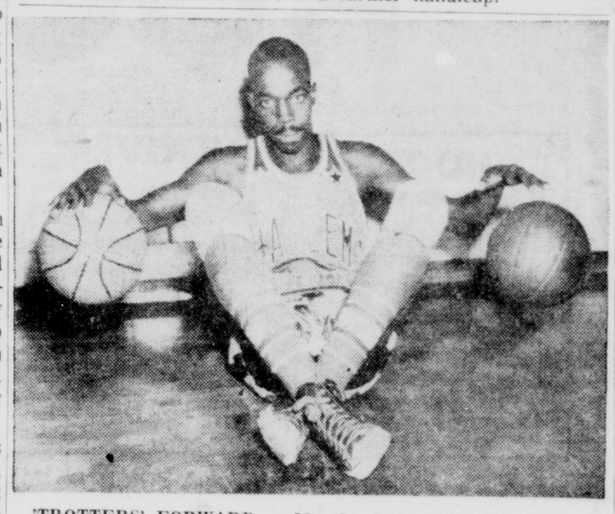
In the B contest, California again ran rampant over the hapless Bulldogs, 52-24. Powering the California scoring attack was Jim Lawson with nine markers. Charles Lieby hit the loop for eight points for Stover.

Tipton will begin play in the regional tournament this week at Tipton.

Score by quarters:

California	35	18	19	22—94
Stover	9	15	13	23—60

Individual scoring: California—Larry Gerlach, 23; Gary Wells, 2; Jim Lawson, 2; Mike Miller, 13; Ken Howard, 4; Jerry Wells, 14; James Kearns, 12; Ronnie Kappelman, 2; Mike Lawson, 18; Terry Allee, 4. Stover—Lieby, 13; Fajen, 7; Baver, 12; Goetze, 5; James, 8; Wilson, 6; Viebrock, 6; Doughy, 3.



'TROTTERS' FORWARD — Murphy Summons, 6-foot-3, plays forward position for the world-famed Harlem Globetrotters, who will appear at Smith-Cotton High School, Feb. 27.

To Appear Here

Ken Glenn Proves A Prize Catch For Globetrotters

Harlem Globetrotters stardom appears in the offing for Kenneth Glenn, former Niagra University ace, who is making his first season with the professional wonders a standout one. Glenn will be wearing the star-spangled togs of Abe Saperstein's cage warriors when they come here to face the Golden Gaters at Smith - Cotton High School gymnasium Thursday night, staring at 8:15 p. m.

Kenny is one of the best of a brilliant rookie crop uncovered this season by the 'Trotters.

First, the vital statistics: He's 23, six feet six inches tall, 210 pounds, strong and agile. He's married and lives in Cleveland, Ohio, with his wife, Dorothy.

The Globetrotters scouted him while he compiled an amazing record in high school and college.

At East Tech in Cleveland, he played three great years of basketball, helping his team win 52 consecutive games and two state championships, while he was chosen to the Cleveland all-city team and the high school All-American in 1959.

He averaged 20 points a game in prep competition on a yield of 1200 points, captained his team as a senior, and also found time to star in track.

Niagra University won his collegiate services and the amassing of a three-year point total of 1177 helped him gain All-American honorable mention in 1963.

Kenny majored in Sociology, has a B.A. degree, and in the off-season is a social worker. The Trotters are proud of him on and off the court.

Sports Scraps

By D. KELLY SCRUTON

FOR several months Thomas P. "Dolly" Farris, well known Sedalian, has been confined to the Bothwell Hospital, suffering from cancer, and his condition has been reported as critical. "Dolly" is one of the better known former Smith-Cotton High School athletes, and will be recalled as a member of that famous team of some thirty years ago which went unbeaten for three seasons, unscored on for two seasons and in one year no opponent got behind the Smith-Cotton 15-yard line.

This past week a number of fellows, who either played on the team with Farris, or were students at the high school and followed the team on trips, recalled some of the "good old days." As a result of their discussion the "Dolly Farris Hospital Fund" was set up at the Third National Bank to give Dolly an assist at a time when he is not able to do for himself. Should any of "Dolly's" old friends desire to give him a lift, they can do so by sending it to the bank.

Farris was a guard on those championship teams when they played in the old Big Seven Conference. Experiences ran high as they recalled various plays and action in games, but whenever his name was mentioned, the conversation would turn to "what can we do for "Dolly," and this turned into the hope of raising some funds to assist his family.

Farris has been in poor health for several years and has been unable to work. His troubles, they recalled, started a number of years ago when his car was struck at 32nd and Limit by an automobile whose owner and driver had no insurance. His first wife was killed in the accident and "Dolly" was crippled for life. His son was spared and is now a student at Sacred Heart School.

That football team of which "Dolly" was a member was coached by Don "Dixie" Davenport, now living in Illinois.

—o—

SPEAKING of the "Old Timers" of Smith-Cotton and on a more brighter side, it was interesting to learn of the success of Robert "Bob" Alpert who is now coaching at Peru, Ill. "Bob" coaches in a grade school where his young son, Allen, is a student and, incidentally is becoming a real basketball player.

Bob coaches two teams in this school which plays a grade school circuit with schools at La Salle, Peru, Oglesby, and Spring Valley, Ill., just the same as the senior high school. His teams have a combined record for the '63-'64 season of 29 wins, one loss. His teams are in divisions of a "light" team and a "heavy" team.

Seems as if his heavy team concluded the season with a 15-0 record and the light team a 14-1.

Now this is the clincher, and really gives Dad something to think about in the coaching business: Allen, who attends the Washington grade school, was playing on the lightweight aggregation in Oglesby and during the game he took nine shots at the goal.

Take a guess . . . . never mind it was nine goals made. As the Daily-Tribune sports writer remarked, "that's grade AA (Allen Alpert) marksmanship in any cage league."

Allen is the grandson of Mrs. Bessie Alpert, 506 West Fourth, here in Sedalia.

—o—

THIS is one weekend during which I believe members of two men's Hillcrest Lanes bowling teams who participated in the Southwest Bowling Tournament at Oklahoma City, Okla., are holding their breath to see if their scores hold up. The teams from Hillcrest made a fine showing and at the present time one team is in first place and the other sixth, in the scratch tournament.

The tournament was divided in three division, Classic, A and B, with the Sedalians in the "A" team competition. The team, composed of C. J. Palmer and Don Potts who both had series of 595, Don Delph a 577, Don Anderson and Mark Chandlor both clipping with 554's, went into first place with a combined scratch of 2,888.

The second team is in sixth place at present with Clarence Friedly leading with a big 648, followed closely by Les Alderman with 627, John Blain with 525, Jess Bondura with 521 and "Tuffy" Heuerman's 501, totalling up a 2,822 scratch.

Potts and Anderson, bowling in the doubles A, are in fifth place with a 1,157 series while Don Delph and Alderman are in sixth with a 1,154 series.

The tournament goes this weekend and two more weekends before the final ball is rolled, and I expect the Southwstern Bell Telephone Co. will reap a nice long distance toll from Sedalia with the locals checking on how they stand after each week of bowling. I know a couple of them are "holding their breath."

Houstonia Wins Last Home Game

Houstonia downed Corder in their last home conference game Friday night, 70 - 64. The win makes their conference record eight wins and four losses.

The first two quarters of play saw Houstonia maintain a lead. However, Corder slipped up on Houstonia during the third period and outscored them in quarter play by four points. Houstonia rallied in the fourth stanza and defeated Corder in quarter play and won the game.

The high point honors went to Jim Kessler sinking 22 points for Houstonia. Deterding hit 29 points for Corder.

The girls team also defeated Corder in a breath-taking game. The lead changed hands alternately every quarter. During first and third period play Houstonia held the lead with Corder claiming high position for second and fourth stanzas.

Susanne Smiley led Houstonia to victory, scoring 34 points. She was ably assisted by Emma Hedgpeth sinking 21 points. Leading the scoring for Corder were Humburg, hitting 22 and Lynn putting 18 points through the hoop.

Houstonia will play in the regional tournament at Smithton beginning Monday evening.

Score by quarters:

Houstonia	19	17	14	20—70
Corder	12	15	18	19—64

Insividual scoring: Houstonia-Jim Kessler, 22; Terry Pummill, 16; Jim Werneke, 17; David Shireman, 15. Corder: G. Deterding, 29; K. Deterding, 12; Bayles, 8; Manning, 4; Winfrey, 3.

Soccer Team Loses First Tourney Game

The Sedalia Freese Dairy Soccer team lost their game with the St. Louis South-Western Kiwanis Saturday, 4-0. The game was a National Khoury League Championship game in the Bantam Division, played in St. Louis.

During first period competition, Sedalia held the St. Louis team to a one-point lead. However, the team could not rally to score during the second half of the game.

The team goes into competition against the Arena Bowl team, from Illinois, Sunday for third place and an added chance for advanced placing.

Nine-Gun 'Salvo' Fired

Quiet Reigns In Finley's American League Battle

BOSTON (AP) — This promises to be a peaceful weekend in the noisome war between Charles O. Finley and the American League.

The obstinate owner of the Kansas City Athletics and his regiment of adversaries have issued either "No comment" or innocuous communiques from the battlefronts since the nine-gun salvo fired at Finley on Friday.

At a meeting here of league brass and squads of lawyers, the nine other team owners quickly and firmly took another step toward booting Finley out of their club.

In effect, the 9-1 vote provided for the AL's Board of Directors to set up a league meeting which would consider and act upon the matter of lifting Finley's franchise.

The unprecedented meeting likely will be held within 10 days, with Miami the most probable location for the key league meeting.

There is a chance, however, that there will be no further league action—if Finley comes to terms with Kansas City over a lease for Municipal Stadium, the playing field for the A's.

But nobody will verify that possibility.

Joe Cronin, president of the AL, indicated as much Saturday when he said the league considered negotiations between Finley and Kansas City "still open."

In Kansas City, Mayor Ilus Davis echoed Cronin. "Our offers to Finley still are open," Davis said, "and we've advised the league that we would keep them advised to what offers from Finley are coming in."

Meanwhile, the usually explosive Finley, silent since the ruling Friday, was unavailable. And his normally eloquent attorney, Louis Nizer, was doing his no commenting through a secretary.

If the AL disenfranchises Finley, here is what will follow according to league rules:

1. The AL will take over the A's, appointing a temporary club boss.

2. The league would negotiate a lease for Municipal Stadium.

3. The league would then undertake to sell the club, with the proceeds—minus expenses for interim operation—going to Finley.

There has never been a franchise taken away in the American League, although the late Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, baseball's first commissioner, took similar action twice in the National League.

The hard-fisted old judge, an implacable foe of any connection between baseball and gambling, ruled C.F. Adams out as part owner of the Boston Braves in the 1930s because Adams was associated with Suffolk Downs race track. And in 1943, Landis ended William D. Cox's connection of the Philadelphia Phillies because the young owner admittedly bet on the team.

Regional Tournaments To Get Underway In Missouri

Regional tournaments for Class S and M schools will get underway throughout Missouri Monday night. In the immediate area there are two Class M tournaments, Knob Noster and Tipton, while Class S tournament will be at Smithton.

All tournaments are single elimination on a 16-team bracket. The Knob Noster tourney has the full 16-team bracket while Tipton has 15 teams for their bracket. At Smithton there are only 14 teams with two bye games.

At Knob Noster the opening games Monday are between Knob Noster and Richill at 6:15; Concordia vs Butler at 7:45; and Pleasant Hill vs Adrain at 9:15. Tuesday games are between Raymore - Peculiar vs College High, Warrensburg at 6:15; Harrisonville vs Higginsville at 7:45; and Windsor vs Odessa at 9:15, Wednesday night, Warrensburg High vs Holden 6:15, St. Paul's Concordia at 7:45; and winners of first and second games of Monday at 9:15.

Tipton tournament schedule: on Monday, Tipton vs Pilot Grove at 6:30; New Franklin vs Cole Camp at 8:30; and Slater vs Fayette at 9:30. Tuesday games, Sacred Heart vs Ashland at 6:30; Russellville vs Sweet Springs at 8 p.m.; and Osage vs Boonville at 9:30. Versailles drew a first round bye at the top of the bracket. Wednesday games, California vs Stover at 6:30; Versailles vs winner of Monday's second game at 8 p.m.; and winners of the third and fourth bracket of Monday.

Monday schedule at Smithton: Otterville received a bye; Bunceton vs Nelson at 6:30; Houstonia vs Hughesville at 8 p.m.; and University High, Columbia, vs Boonville Catholic at 9:30. Tuesday schedule, Jamestown a bye; Prairie Home vs LaMonte at 6:30; Smithton vs Marshall Mercy at 8 p. m. and Lincoln vs Green Ridge at 9:30 p.m.

Rockhurst's Shot At Berth Is Enhanced

ATCHISON, Kan. (AP)—Rockhurst came from behind to tie the score in the last two minutes, then got hot in an overtime session and defeated the St. Benedict's Ravens 81-72 in basketball Saturday.

The victory enhanced Rockhurst's shot at a berth in the NAIA tournament playoffs. The Hawks have a 19-6 record, St. Benedict's 11-9. Both have one regular season game left.

The Ravens were leading 68-64 with two minutes left in regulation time but Rockhurst's Harry Witte and Ralph Telken each hit a basket to make the count 68-all. The Ravens tried for a winning shot but missed. The overtime was all Rockhurst.

St. Benedict's led most of the time, but lost some fire when Pat Hare fouled out with 10:42 to go after scoring 24 points. Pat Caldwell topped Rockhurst with 23.

Wisconsin Is Maulled

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Michigan's Wolverines, ranked second in the nation, mauled Wisconsin 103-59 to maintain their share of first place in the Big Ten basketball race Saturday before a packed crowd of 13,217.

The victory was Michigan's ninth in 11 conference games and kept them even with Ohio State, a 72-61 victor over Northwestern.

Bill Buntin and Cazzie Russell again provided most of the Michigan scoring punch. Buntin chalked up 28 points and Russell 26. They sat out the last eight minutes.

Michigan, with an over-all record of 18-3, took command in the third minute of play and held a 51-26 halftime lead.

Missouri Tigers Are Favorites

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Missouri Tigers, led by their middle distance star, Robin Lingle, are favored to win the Big Eight indoor track meet here Friday and Saturday, but Kansas, Oklahoma and Nebraska's defending champs all have a chance at the crown.

At least five meet records will be in danger. Three meet marks already have been surpassed during this indoor season, two of them by Lingle.

The trim, intense West Point transfer ran a 4:03.6 mile in a dual and a 2:08.9 in the 1,000-yard run behind Canadian Bill Crothers in the Maple Leaf games at Toronto. Lingle's career best in the 1,000 was a 2:06.4 last season, when he ran unattached.

Lingle's best season clockings are the best indoor marks in history by a Big Eight athlete. The indoor meet records are the 4:06.5 mile by Wes Santee of Kansas in 1954 and the 2:11.6 by Cliff Cushman of Kansas in the 1,000 in 1959.

Lingle is expected to shoot for a double in these two events and perhaps run on the mile relay team as well. The Tigers also could get a 1-2 in the shot put but their depth of talent makes them the favorite for their first indoor crown since 1948.

Kansas, the champion in 11 of the past 14 meets, also has the depth but the Jayhawks don't have a Lingle who seems to be a certain double winner.

Floyd Manning of Kansas has cleared 15 feet 8½ inches in the pole vault this season compared to the meet mark of 15-17 by J. D. Martin of Oklahoma in 1960. Meet records in the 880 and 529-mile also are in danger from one of the best fields in the meet's 36-year history.

Oklahoma's chances will be much better if Anthony Watson, a member of the 1960 U. S. Olympic team and 1962 NCAA broad jump champ, is able to approach top form for the meet. Watson was ineligible last season and underwent a knee operation.

Nebraska is weak in field events, but there are only four held in the indoor meet. The defending champs are deep in talented runners like sprinter Kent McCloughan, Dave Crook in the 440, Gil Gebo in the 440 and 600.

Colorado's Leander Durley, who set a meet high jump mark of 6-10¼ last year, is ineligible. But the talented high jump field includes Russ Laverty of Oklahoma State, Ross Tunnell of Missouri, and Tyce Smith and Charlie Twiss of Kansas, all over 6-7 to 6-8 jumpers.

Only three individual champs will return, and it'll be a ssurprise if more than one repeat. Herald Hadley, Kansas two-miler, has the best chance. The others are Mick Baller, Oklahoma State in the pole vault, slowed by an injury; and Rick Beldner, Missouri, 60-yard dash.

Indonesia Is Taking Over British Tea And Rubber Estates

JAKARTA, INDONESIA (AP) British-owned rubber and tea estates seized by their workers in central Java last month are being taken over by the Indonesian government, Antara News Agency reported Saturday.

It was the first report of government takeovers since the Communists and President Sukarno's regime began a tug of war over British-owned enterprises. The Communists have been demanding immediate government seizure of all British firms in the country.

Defense Airs Complaints About Jury

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—The defense charged Saturday that a murder jury to try Jack Ruby is being forced down their throats, although only two panel members have been selected in the first week of his trial.

"We are not picking a jury anymore," chief defense attorney Melvin Belli told Judge Joe B. Brown. "We're having a jury forced down our throats."

Belli's complaint came during the examination of jury candidate Albert C. Phillips, a building materials employe. He admitted a fixed opinion on Ruby's Nov. 24 slaying of Lee Harvey Oswald, accused assassin of President John F. Kennedy.

The defense repeatedly has sought to have the trial of Ruby, 52, moved out of Dallas. Belli renewed this plea in vain, pointing to Phillips' admitted bias, and declaring:

"We have the burden of proof on our side. Cannot your honor see from these conscientious jurors (sic) that they are trying to tell us something?"

The defense contends Dallas is biased against Ruby because the slaying of Oswald on the heels of Kennedy's assassination tarnished the city's image. Belli described this during the day as "the aura of unfairness over the case."

Judge Brown eventually excused Phillips from the jury because of his opinion, which he was not asked to state. Five other prospects were excused for the same reason during the special Saturday trial session, and four more were dismissed because they opposed capital punishment.

In all, 48 prospective jurors have been examined since the trial began last Monday. The only ones agreeable to both sides have been Max Causey, 35, and Allen W. McCoy, 39, both technical men with college degrees.

Ruby seemed tense as the first week of the trial ended. He was pale and from time to time he worked his jaws nervously. His often ready smile was not in evidence.

He is accused of murder with malice, and the state is asking the death penalty. The defense is pleading insanity.

Police Officers Face A 'Stacked Deck' In Their Upcoming Trial

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A St. Louis alderman said Saturday that 10 suspended St. Louis police officers face a "stacked deck" in their upcoming trials before the Board of Police Commissioners.

Alderman Joseph Roddy (Dem.) said he thinks the trials should be held before a "neutral party."

"The problem of giving these officers a fair and unbiased trial still exists," Roddy said. "I think it is the governor's responsibility to see that they get it."

The Board of Aldermen passed a resolution Friday urging Gov. John Dalton to create a five-man citizens' committee to investigate the "propriety" of the recent suspensions.

The governor declined to comment on the board's action and reaffirmed his confidence in the Board of Police Commissioners.

Chief of Police Curtis Brostron and Lt. Col. James Shea, chief of field operations, suspended the officers for alleged inefficiency.

The trial for the first officer is set for Thursday. Each officer will have a separate trial.

Brownlee To Speak At Banquet

Dr. Richard S. Brownlee, director, secretary and librarian of the State Historical Society of Missouri, will be the speaker at the Pettis County Historical Society banquet which will be held at the Bothwell Hotel Wednesday, Feb. 26, at 6:30 p.m. He will talk on some of the history of this area.

Dr. Brownlee was born at Brookfield, Linn County, Mo., a fifth generation of a pioneer Missouri banking family. He was graduated from the Brookfield High School in 1935, received a B.A. degree from the University of Missouri, majoring in history and English, and a Bachelor of Journalism degree in 1940. He went into service in 1941 in the Army as a private, and served in the Infantry and Army Air Force until his discharge in December 1945 as a captain.

After working briefly on newspapers in Lebanon and Warrensburg, Dr. Brownlee entered the graduate school of the University of Missouri in the spring of 1947, obtaining his Master of Arts degree in history in 1950 and his Ph. D. degree in history in 1955. His primary work was in Western history, and the subject for both his Master's thesis and Doctor's dissertation was western. From 1947 to 1950 Dr. Brownlee was a Graduate Assistant teaching in the history department, and was made assistant director of Adult Education at the University of Missouri and placed in charge of the state-wide academic extension class program.

In 1958 his book, "Gray Ghosts of the Confederacy" was published. In May, 1960, he was appointed director of the State Historical Society.

Trap Results In Break-Up Of Narcotics Ring

NEW YORK (AP) — Authorities said Saturday a trap laid by Canadian police led to the arrest here of the Mexican ambassador to Bolivia and two other men and seizure of millions of dollars worth of smuggled heroin.

Estimates of the retail value of the contraband ranged from $13.5 million to $25 million at United States prices and to $52 million in Canada, where narcotics are scarcer.

Meanwhile, the Mexican government fired the ambassador, Salvador Pardo Bolland. The ministry in Mexico City said he was dismissed from leaving his post without authorization.

The Mexicans called his involvement "a very dishonorable and painful thing," especially in view of his high position and Mexican efforts to combat drug traffic.

The heroin was smuggled into Canada and the United States from the Middle East via France. The haul was one of the largest ever of its type — more than 134 pounds.

Canadian police found the heroin in four suitcases in lockers in a Montreal railway station but, instead of arresting the man who checked them, worked out this stratagem: They switched all but two pounds of the narcotics with flour, leaving the two pounds as additional evidence if the trail led to associates of the man.

Meet Manager Named

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Ward Haylett, retired track coach at Kansas State University, will serve as meet manager at the 36th annual Big Eight Conference Indoor Track Championships Friday and Saturday.

Haylett coached track 46 years, 35 of them at Kansas State, before his retirement last June.

Reaves Peters, retired executive director of the conference, will be honorary referee at the meet in Municipal Auditorium.

Wyatt Comes To Term

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Ace relief pitcher John Wyatt came to contract terms Saturday with the Kansas City Athletics.

Wyatt set an A's record last season when he appeared in 63 games. He won six and lost four while compiling an earned run average of 3.03. He was also one of the American League leaders in games saved, with 18.

Farmer's Daughter Makes It

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Katie made it! "The Farmer's Daughter" has been renewed for the next television season. The oddsmakers said no show starring a woman could succeed in today's television market, unless she could play it for laughs like a "Lucy" or a "Hazel."

Yet "The Farmer's Daughter," starring Inger Stevens, was recently picked up for its second season, having weathered yet another handicap of suffering a midseason switch from Friday to Wednesday night.

"I must admit I'm a little proud that we did it," said the outspoken Swede. "I don't believe anyone really thought that we would last beyond 13 weeks when we first went on the air and very little was done to help us. All of which proves that if you believe in what you're doing and work hard, there is a chance you can succeed."

Inger didn't realize just how successful the series was until she went to St. Paul recently for the winter carnival. She reports that 100,000 people turned out for the torchlight parade, by far the biggest crowd in the carnival's history.

"I visited a lot of children in hospitals, and they all watched the show," she said. "I was amazed."

The question she was asked most often was: Is Katie going to marry the congressman (played by William Windom) for whose sons she is governess?

"I don't know, but I would think so," she said. "After all, they are two intelligent persons and if they don't get married after a year or more, people will talk."

And what about marriage for Inger Stevens, girl bachelor?

"Yes, I want to get married," she said, "but it will take a very understanding man to put up with my schedule. I have to be up at 5 a.m. to leave for the studio, and I usually don't get home until 8:20 at night. I never have a day off in the series, and when I do, I have to shoot commercials or photographs."

British Military Car Held By East German Police On Autobahn

BERLIN (AP) — A British military car was held for 2 hours by Communist East German police on an autobahn Saturday. The British called it a routine incident in which the Communists accused the British of violating a traffic law.

Cars of the British liaison mission are frequently halted by the East German police. The British refuse to deal with them and demand a Soviet officer to handle the matter. The problem is usually quickly settled.

The car, traveling to Berlin through East Germany, was stopped 40 miles outside the city. It was released when a Soviet officer arrived.

Junior Bowler Rolls 730-League Series

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Karen Rideout, 18-year-old Junior bowler, rolled a 730 in league competition today, the highest 3-game score in the nation for a girl Junior bowler in sanctioned league play.

W. E. Sutton, Chicago, director of youth activity in the Youth Bowling Association, said it was the highest total ever turned in by a girl Junior bowler.

Miss Rideout put together games of 211, 250 and 269 while rolling in the King Louis Stars league. She started her series with a miss in the first frame after a 10-pin tap, then marked all the way, chalking up 22 strikes in her big effort.

She carries a league average of 178, upped to 181 with today's whopping score.

The mistletoe was the first official state flower in America. Oklahoma adopted it in 1893, while still a territory.

Get Down To Business

Clay And Liston End Talkathon

MIAMI BEACH (AP) — Cassius Clay and heavyweight champion Sonny Liston end their talkathon Tuesday night and settle down to the big business of fighting for the title in a possible $5 million plus promotion.

Although the undefeated, 22-year-old Louisville Lip is rated a 7-1 underdog in the betting and few experts give him a chance, the promotion could wind up as the richest in boxing history.

Liston, who calls the cocky challenger "my million dollar baby," could earn $1.36 million for a fight that may not last three minutes. Clay's cut could be about $600,000.

Miami sportsman Bill MacDonald has guaranteed the fighters $625,000 for the live gate in Convention Hall.

MacDonald says he needs $800,000 to break even. The promoter has scaled 16,000 seats at prices from $20 to $250. A sell-out would gross $1.1 million.

But the big money for the cheerless champion from Denver and the brash ballyhoo artist-boxer from Louisville will come from the closed circuit television to some 265 theaters and arenas from coast to coast.

With about 1,100,000 seats available at prices ranging from $4 to $10, a sale of 800,000 at about $5 head could gross $4 million. The radio broadcast by ABC, the movie receipts and other odds and ends could put another $300,000 or so into the pot.

Liston will receive 40 per cent and Clay 22½ per cent of the $625,000 guarantee. They will also get the same percentage of one-half of the gross of the closed circuit television money after Theater Network Television takes out its 15 per cent.

Then Liston cuts into another fat piece. He is president of International Sports, Inc., and will get one-half of ISI's 37½ per cent of the theater-television. Jim and Bob Nilon, brothers of Jack Nillon, Liston's adviser, are the other key officials of the corporation.

It all adds up to a fortune for the pugilists who have been waging a war of words for months. Both predict quick knockout victories, and that is believable.

Depending on his mood, Clay has forecast he'll be the new champion in 8, 5 or 3 rounds. By fight time it wouldn't be any surprise if he cuts it to one—and runs and runs when the bell sounds.

"I'm gonna upset the whole world," said Cassius, who has proven to be an outstanding salesman if still little tested as a fighter. "I'm bigger than he is. This is not going to be a giant fighting any Floyd Patterson. This man is scared to death."

"Three rounds—no more," retorted Liston. "If he's gonna run I'm gonna get him in one of the corners and shut that big mouth of his."

Beatles Are Back Home After Tour

LONDON (AP)—The Beatles are back home with a chorus about the U.S. of A.: "Fabulous."

The mop-haired quartet got a welcome fit for a king at London Airport Saturday, though the general state of decorum was hardly regal.

Smiling, waving and mugging, they got off the plane from New York to be greeted by one of the largest crowds ever assembled at London Airport. Some had slept on the floor of the terminal to be there when their idols arrived before breakfast.

Police were deployed in formations worked out to protect royalty. Seven-foot crush barriers, normally reserved for visiting heads of state, penned in thousands of screaming youngsters.

Six thousand were waiting at the airport apron or on the roofs of terminal buildings. Another five thousand or so who couldn't be squeezed in were lining roads, rooftops and entrance drives to catch a glimpse of Britain's four famous faces.

The crush on the apron was so intense that one girl was taken to the hospital with serious head injuries. Fans clambered atop half-a-dozen cars for a better view, and the damage bill for crushed hoods, bent fenders and dented roofs was put at more than $1,000.

The Beatles themselves seemed delighted by the welcome, as always.

"Why did you stay away so long?" said one placard. "Don't ever go away again," said another.

The wailing of their fans must have been music to their ears. While they were away in America, their records slipped off the list of Britain's top 10 bestsellers. They told newsmen they'd be back in the recording studios this week, thumping out new tunes to fill the seemingly bottomless pit of Beatlemania.

First question they were asked was what they thought of America. A moment's reflection, then drummer Ringo Starr essayed: "It's bigger."

Then they all agreed: "Fabulous."

Polaris Subs In Madrid

MADRID (AP) — The United States is going to base eight Polaris submarines at the U.S.-Spanish naval base at Rota, on Spain's southern Atlantic Coast, within easy reach of the Mediterranean.

The submarine tender Proteus is expected to arrive Monday at Rota from Holy Loch, Scotland, only other U.S. Polaris submarine base in Europe, to become mother ship to the new squadron.

The pending assignment of the nuclear submarines to Rota had been an open secret in the area for weeks. There was no formal announcement in Madrid but the commander of the Polaris squadron at Holy Loch, Capt. David Bell, confirmed the reports Thursday in disclosing the departure of the Proteus.

The United States has had Polaris submarines on patrol in the Mediterranean almost a year. With a range of 1,725 miles, their missiles are capable of penetrating deep into the Soviet Union.

A tactical reason for the assignment of the submarines is the withdrawal of obsolete intermediate-range ballistic missiles from Turkey and Italy. Groups in both countries had objected to the presence of the U.S. missiles on the ground they made Italian and Turkish soil targets for Soviet attack.

Spanish sources considered the U.S. decision a compliment to Spain's political stability and its relations with the United States.

However, a problem is visible in Spain's growing trade with Cuba. On Tuesday, the U.S. State Department said Spain will get no new U.S. aid until it replies to an inquiry on what steps it is taking to curtail this trade.

The famed embroidery industry of Madeira, Spain, is a home industry with careful government supervision. Children of 5 or 6 are taught the art in a government school and a government agency imports the fabrics from Ireland and Switzerland, stamping them with designs and setting standards for some 70,000 pieces-workers.

"FORE"

I live in my own private world each day from 2 a.m. until daylight. I cruise the town sometimes looking around and listening to the radio. I see some very interesting things at that hour of the morning, but more interesting and more educational are some of the things they say on the radio. For instance, this week I learned that in about 30 more years, when I am 65 that I can, I may not, but I can work and make all the money that I am capable of making and still collect my full Social Security benefits. That's the way I understand it; but to understand it better I must buy 5 books, namely — 'Billions in Beauty Aids", 'Millions in Real Estate", "How to Make Money by Mail", "Think and Grow Rich" and the famous Social Security book on "How To Make All You Please After 65." Now here is the clincher for the sale. If you send in $4.98 today for the 5 books, as a bonus you get the greatest book of all absolutely free on "How to Scheme Yourself Into Several Thousand Dollars," all offered by Profit Research, that's Profit Research, Times Square, New York City, New York.

Now, I doubt seriously that many of the local Schemers and Mayor - Council Policy Advisors were listening to the radio at that hour, so I assume a Super Salesman sailed into Sedalia selling these tangible items (Namely Books) cramed full of intangible schemes and did a magnificent, bang up selling job here. But why, as most other salesmen, didn't he get as far south as ELM HILLS PUBLIC GOLF COURSE? It could be he came out, was so impressed with our sporty fairways, or by driving balls on the driving range that he forgot to sell us his books. Then on second thought, if he started selling around Second and Ohio, went west by southwest around the corner of Second and Osage and continued at least as far as, oh, say Broadway at 17th, then I know he just plumb sold out of that book "How to Scheme Yourself Into Several Thousands Dollars.

As a parting thought for this week lets all be glad we live in America. Where else, may I ask, can you go, park a couple of financed automobiles in front of a mortgaged home then cruise our bonded highways with a credit card? Russ.

LaMonte PTA In February Meeting Monday

The LaMonte PTA held its regular meeting on Monday, Feb. 17, in the elementary building.

The meeting was called to order by President Irwin Rumpf. The devotion was given by Rev. Roy Smith and a business session followed the devotional. A nominating committee was appointed and a health clinic was announced by health chairman, Mrs. Charles Dilthey.

Mrs. Paul Moore was in charge of the Founders Day program and gave a resume of the beginning of PTA, the purposes and goals of the organization.

Mrs. Ruth Binderup, third grade teacher, directed a short musical program with her third grade pupils singing several action songs and concluding with the spelling out of Happy Birthday to the PTA.

Mrs. Bonnie Clemons presented the Junior Mixed Chorus who sang, "I Whistle a Happy Tune," "Faith of Our Fathers" and "Turn Back, O Man."

Supt. Ordell Sholl explained the new Pettis County Board of Education and stressed the need of a representative from the LaMonte district.

After the meeting was adjourned, mothers from the ninth and tenth grades served refreshments from a lace covered table using the Founders Day theme and the PTA colors in the decorations.

The next meeting will be March 16 with Chester Vermaas, Missouri Conservation agent, as program leader.

Hold Covered Dish Supper

The members of the Elks Ladies Club, and their husbands, enjoyed a covered dish supper Wednesday, Feb. 19, at the Elks Lodge. The meat and the dessert was furnished by the Ladies Club and the members brought covered dishes to complete the meal. There were 85 persons in attendance.

"Happy Birthday" was sung to a charter member, Mrs. Rosalie Reuter, who was celebrating her 83rd birthday, and to a new member, Mrs. Nancy Glenn.

Mr. Fran Diefenbach, chaplain of the Elks Lodge, gave the blessing, preceding the dinner.

Mrs. Harry Small, president of the Elks Ladies Club, then introduced her committee for the supper as: Mrs. W. O. Wilson, chairman, and Mrs. Aron Smith, co-chairman. Those assisting were Mrs. Henry Peterschmdit, Mrs. John Starkey, Mrs. Adolph Glenn, and Mrs. Joe Wilson.

Following the supper, the men attended their regular meeting of the lodge, while the ladies enjoyed a social hour.

LOOKALIKES—Seen in the funny papers by her friends in Bassett, Va., was Gay Carter, right. They said she bore a striking resemblance to Nurse Marge Howard, left, in the Ben Casey daily strip. Miss Carter went along with the gag, had her hair done like Nurse Howard—and here's the result.

To Mark 102nd Birthday On February 28

Ten years ago Michael J. Collins was a familiar person on the downtown streets of Sedalia and around the Pettis County courthouse. He liked to talk to people, had an ambition to be the oldest person in town, and he was certain that he would reach the century mark. His goals have been reached and he has gone two years beyond, for on Feb. 28 he will be 102 years old, and he is the oldest citizen in Sedalia.

No longer does he wander about the downtown area but for the past few years has been confined to his home, at 315 West Fifth, where he lives with his daughter, Margaret, and son, Stephen.

Since his last birthday the young president, John F. Kennedy, for whom he cast his last vote, has been assassinated and Pope John XXIII, who two years ago gave him his blessing, has died.

Twenty presidents have been in office since he was born 102 years ago, the first one was Abraham Lincoln, and the first one he voted for was Chester A. Arthur in 1884.

There have been eight Popes in the Vatican and the last, Pope Paul, has sent his blessing.

Born in Smithton, of Irish parents, his father was a Missouri Pacific section foreman and at the age of 15, he too went to work on the section. At the age of 18 his father made him a foreman and each took one-half of the section with their own gang. He has often related the story he remembers vividly of the holdup of the Missouri Pacific train at Otterville by the James boys, and other visits they made through and around Pettis County.

In 1884 he moved to a large farm at Spring Fork and later took his bride, Julia Shea, there. They reared a family of six, five sons, Emmett, William, Stephen, Leo and Frank, and one daughter, Margaret. He has seven grandchildren and 12 great grandchildren, all living in Detroit, Mich.

In 1928 Mr. and Mrs. Collins retired, sold their farm and held a public sale, after which they moved to Sedalia. She died in 1950. Mr. Collins is a member of Sacred Heart Catholic Church.

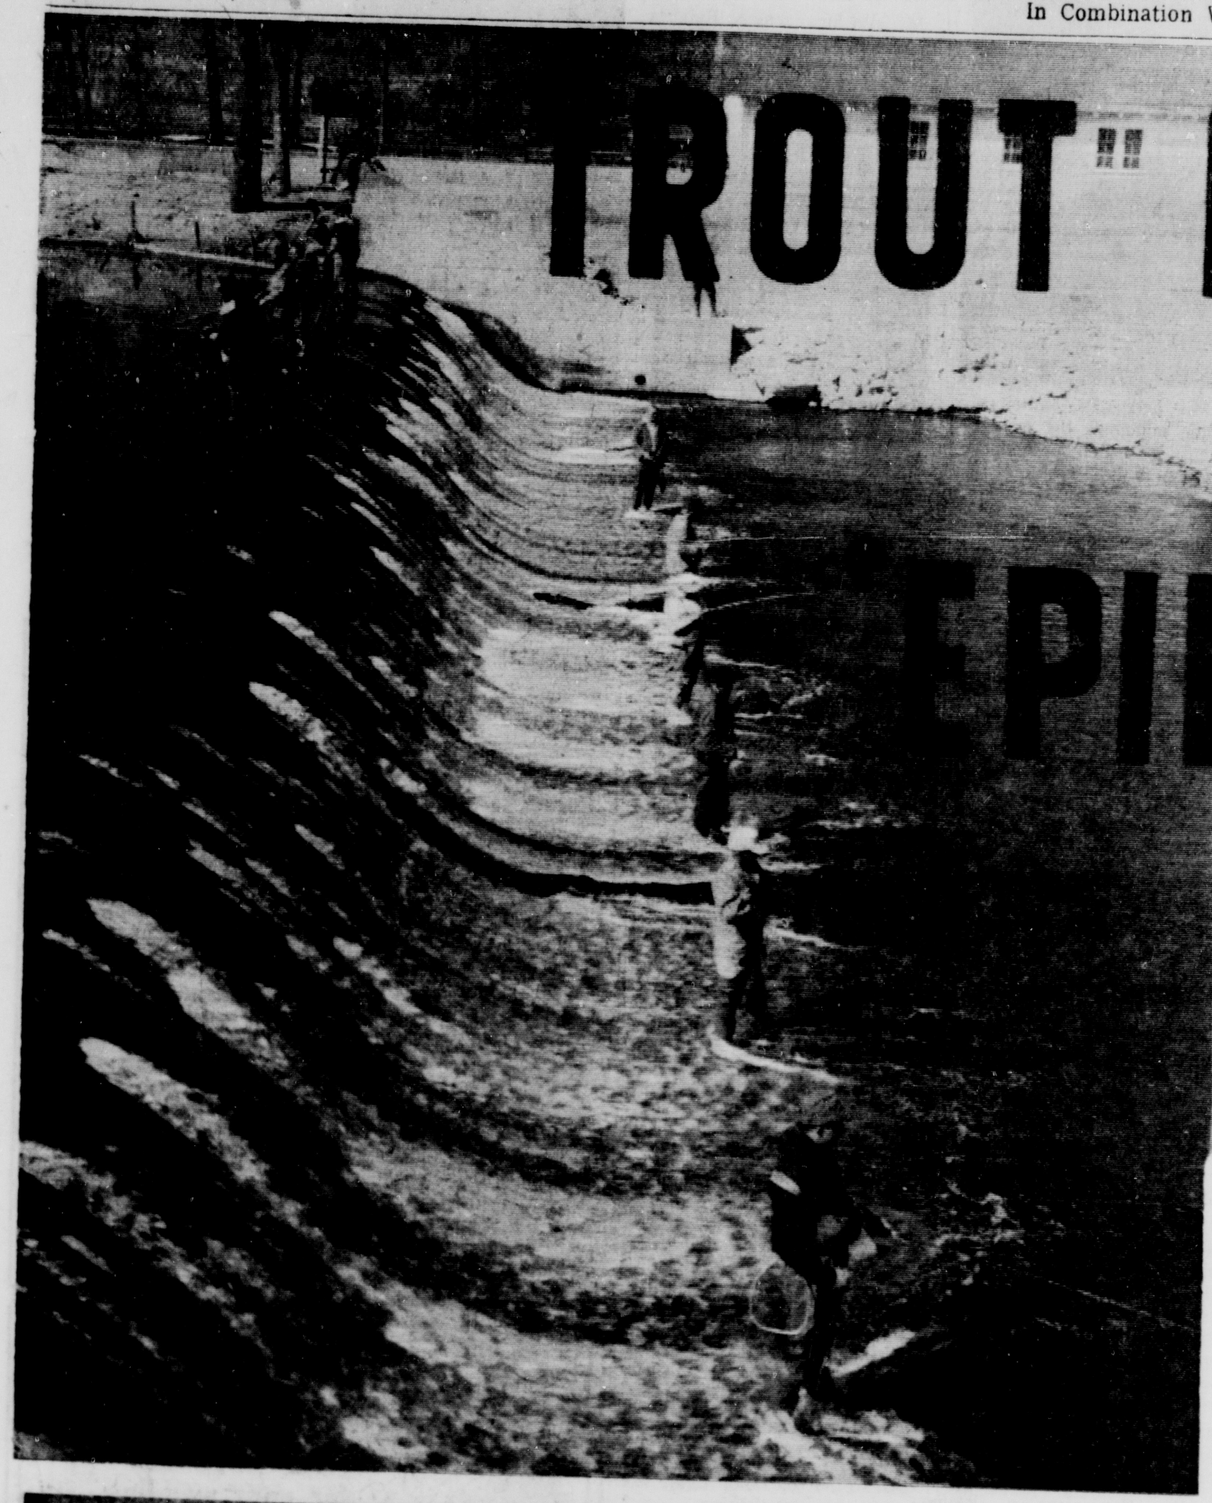
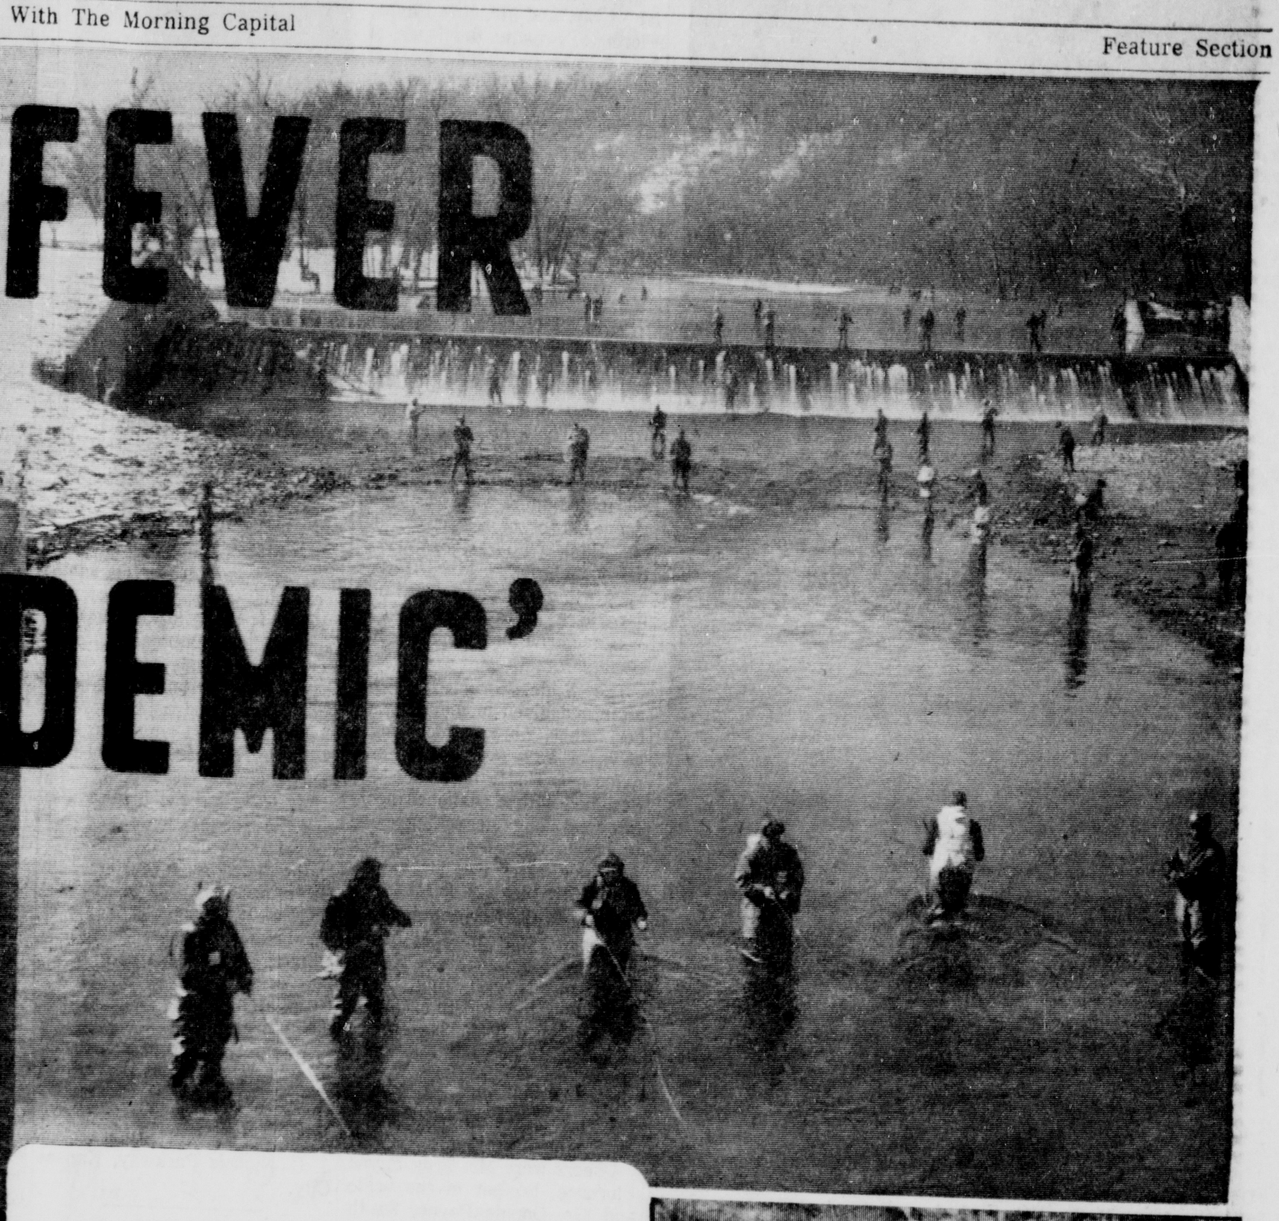
In Combination With The Morning Capital

Feature Section

'TROUT' FEVER

'EPIDEMIC'





SEASON OPENING NEAR — As trout season's opener nears, the bug begins to "bite" sport fishermen and the scenes above and at left, taken March 1, 1963, at Bennett Springs State Park, give some idea of the number effected by the "bug." Many fishermen spend the night before the March 1 opening at trout fishing spots and others motor many miles in the wee hours of the morning so as to arrive and be ready to go when the day light siren screams the opening signal. (Democrat-Capital photos)

WHAT THEY'RE AFTER—Sedalian Jack Cunningham displays the beauties that sport fishermen go to great lengths to net. The picture was taken March 1, 1963. Many of the first-dayer trout fishermen usually end the season with that one jaunt to their favorite stream, while others make regular trips throughout the season.

TYPICAL SCENE — As dawn breaks and sheds enough light for the camera, this scene is typical of a March 1 morning at Bennett Springs and other trout fishing streams across Missouri. As seen here, a blanket of snow covered the ground for the 1963 opener but the temperature had little effect on the number present for the opening day. With March 1 falling on a Sunday this year, the number of trout fishermen out for the opener is expected to be staggering.

By RALPH JONES

SHOW Biz has its opening nighters, stamp collectors seek out first-day covers and book collectors search the world over for first editions.

But these things mean absolutely nothing to the traditional Missouri trout season openers. Actually the trout season is open all year in Missouri, but to the first-dayers who attend the openers at Bennett Springs, Roaring River or Montauk State Park, the season opens March 1, (That's next Sunday) and ends October 31.

Sedalians, being located nearest to Bennett Springs make this their opening day headquarters, and to some people like Dick Monsees and Maurice Griffin this is the big day of the year. For the past 25 years, Griffin and Monsees have missed only "one or two" opening days, regardless of wind and weather.

This year Griffin and Monsees will probably be joined by Chuck Branson, who about three years ago landed a 13-pound, twelve ounce rainbow at Bennett, said to be the largest ever landed in Missouri. Among the old-timers Branson is a comparative newcomer, having only about ten openers, but he intends to eventually chalk up a record comparable to the oldest.

Dozens of other men in the Sedalia area also attend the traditional opener at Bennett. This group includes Circuit Judge Frank Hayes, Paul Hausam, Jimmy Dickman, W. C. Ream, Virgil Herrick and others.

Preparations for opening day begin early, around the first of January. Groups begin making plans, predicting the weather, and above all, making reservations for rooms so they can drive down the day before opening, case the area and be ready when the siren goes off early the following morning.

Men from the Sedalia area, along with hundreds of other opening dayers from all over the state, will travel to Bennett Saturday to map out strategy for the following day. They will move in their gear, clean and re-clean their fly lines and oil up their fly rods. They will prowl the area, noting any changes in the stream since last year, and pick out a likely spot to station themselves a couple of hours before the siren sounds, signaling the opening of a new season.

This year they will probably have to add an hour or so to the waiting time (get there three hours ahead of the siren instead of two) because as the season opens Sunday, there will no doubt be a couple of hundred extra people present.

With thoughts of early rising in their minds, the anglers retire to their cabins, or a friend's cabin, to talk over past openers, make predictions about the weather, and perhaps spin a few yarns over the 'big ones' they have landed in past years.

Come morning, despite rain, snow, freezing drizzle or any other unpleasant circumstances the weatherman can dream up, the anglers are at their favorite spots, or as near as possible, ready to begin another year of trout fishing.

The old-timers will land some good ones. Less experienced anglers will get some strikes, and chances are they will land one or two. The inexperienced will almost land a few. But everyone will enjoy themselves.

Gambling-- An Incurable 'Sickness'

By DAVID MAZZARELLA

NEWARK, N.J. (AP)—Mr. I. sat in a movie theater, engrossed in the film. The excitement grew as the scene shifted to a gambling casino. And Mr. I. squirmed, tortured.

A compulsive gambler, he couldn't bear to see gambling without getting into the action. He quickly left the movie.

In 35 years of daily gambling, Mr. I.—who is 55—lost half a million dolars, a business and his wife. The only thing he saved was sleeping pills for the day he'd hit rock—bottom and give up completely.

But now he is in Gamblers Anonymous, a group similar to Alcoholics Anonymous, which seeks to keep men from gambling a day at a time. Mr. I. hasn't gambled for more than 500 days, his wife is back with him and he has a steady job.

He's slowly paying off $75,000 he still owes from his gambling days, giving one-third of his $15,000-a-year income as an investment advisor to his creditors. About $55,000 is owed to family members who aren't being paid yet.

"You see, I know gambling is an incurable disease," he says. "All I can do is arrest the sickness. I fight it day by day. When I get up in the morning, I tell myself I'm not going to make a bet that day."

Gamblers Anonymous, which began in Los Angeles seven years ago, tells its members they have this incurable disease.

Chapters around the country hold weekly meetings at which members stand up and talk about their gambling experiences. Some have criminal records from the days they needed money so badly they would do anything to get it.

Mr. I. says that for 35 years he thought he could abstain from gambling at any time. But he found he was wrong.

"You don't know what it's like to be a compulsive gambler." Slowly, he drew a hand across his stomach, as if the illness was indeed physical and imbedded there. "The utter desolation and loss when you're down and out. And you can't stop.

"Once I won $45,000 in Vegas in one day. I went to California, looked at the money, figured I could make it into $90,000 and went back to Vegas. In no time I'd lost that $45,000 and another $15,000 I borrowed from the casino."

Why does a man gamble compulsively?

Some point to deep psychological reasons — neglect in childhood, a subconscious desire to lose.

There have been numerous studies of the problem. One was conducted by Dr. Donald J. Lewis, chairman of the Rutgers University psychology department, who took three groups — college students, children and rats —and broke each into three small divisions.

He set up controlled games of chance for each group, and provided rewards.

The college students played slot machines, the children guessed which buttons to press for a toy, and the rats had ot run down a certain path to get food.

One division in each group was made to win all the time, another to win part of the time and the third to lose all the time.

At a given point, all rewards were stopped. The idea was to see which division — the constant losers, the constant winners or those who both won and lost — would quit playing first.

Dr. Lewis says he found that among all the students, children and rats, the results were constant: Those who won less played the longest after the rewards stopped coming.

He says other psychologists have tried similar experiments with other "organisms"—dogs, cats, etc.

The results are always the same, he says. The more they lose the more they play.

The whale shark is the largest of living fishes.

Mrs. James O. Richwine

Mary Ann Zimmerschied Becomes Bride of Mr. James O. Richwine

The evening of Valentine's Day, Feb. 14, at half past seven o'clock, Miss Mary Ann Zimmerschied, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Zimmerschied, 2304 East Broadway, became the bride of Mr. James O. Richwine, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Richwine, Route 1, at Immanuel United Church of Christ.

The Rev. Armin F. Klemme, pastor, read the double ring ceremony before an altar decorated with two seven branch candelabra holding white tapers, altar bouquets and standing baskets of white gladioli, white chrysanthemums and emerald foliage. White satin bows marked the pews and a white aisle carpet centered the aisle.

Miss Lillian Fox, organist, played selections before the ceremony and accompanied Mrs. Nedra Zimmerschied, who sang "O Perfect Love" and "The Lord's Prayer," the latter as the couple knelt at the end of the ceremony.

Wearing red velveteen dresses and veiled red velveteen and rose headpieces, candlelighters were Miss Sharon Martin and Miss Connie Green. Their wrist corsages were of white carnations with red trim.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of tulle and French lace. The slender basque bodice was fashioned with long tapering sleeves and a scalloped Sabrina neckline. Alternating tiers of tulle and scalloped lace formed the voluminous floor length skirt, with na overskirt of lace which curved to diagonal points at each side. A miniature petal cap embroidered with pearls held her bouffant veil of silk illusion. A cascade of white roses, stephanotis and a white orchid was arranged on a Bible for the bride to carry.

Mrs. Chriss Lemler, matron of honor, wore a scoop neck red velveteen dress with red velveteen rose headpiece with veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations arranged on a red satin heart tied with red satin streamers. Bridesmaid was Miss Carolyn Oehrke, cousin of the bride. Her dress and flowers were like that of the matron of honor.

Mr Chriss Lemler was best man and Mr. David McCune was groomsman. Ushers were Mr. Richard Oehrke, cousin of the bride, Mr. Clell Furnell and Mr Dean Alfrey.

Miss Diane Harrell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Harrell, was flower girl. Her dress was like those of the other bridal attendants. She had a wrist corsage of red feathered carnations and carried a basket of red rose petals.

The bride's mother wore a medium blue suit, black accessories and a white rose corsage. The mother of the bridegroom selected a light blue dress, accessorized with black and a white rose corsage.

Approximately 150 guests were entertained at a reception in the church basement after the ceremony. A four tiered wedding cake highlighted with a miniature bride and bridegroom, was encircled at the base with red roses and stephanotis. The cake was decorated on a pink and lace covered table and flanked with candelabra holding lighted tapers. Mrs. Dean Peters and Mrs. Lily Bailey, sisters of the bridegroom, served.

Miss Nancy Richwine, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Joyce Zimmerschied, sister of the bride, attended the guest book.

After the recepiton the couple left for a wedding trip. For traveling, the bride wore a medium blue suit, blue and white accessories and a white orchid taken from the bridal bouquet. The couple is at home at 2245 East Broadway.

A graduate of the 1962 class of Smith-Cotton High School, the bride is employed at Southwestern Bell Telephone Company. The bridegroom was graduated from Green Ridge High School in 1962 and is employed at Chaney's Seed House.

Mrs. R. E. Staley and Mrs. William Staley gave a shower for the bride. She was also given a shower by New Bethel Methodist Church.

Miss Alta Lee Payne Marries Elmer Williams In Kansas City

Mrs. Elmer Williams

Miss Alta Lee Payne, daughter of Mr. and Mr. Roy Payne, Florence, became the bride of Mr. Elmer Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard L. Williams, Kansas City, Mo., at 7 o'clock Saturday evening, Feb. 8, at the Mt. Olive Baptist Church.

The Rev. Gary Payne, brother of the bride, read the double ring ceremony before an altar setting of pink and white roses and lighted tapers.

Mr. Donald Rodgers, Bunceton, played the traditional wedding music and accompanied Miss Elizabeth Thomas, Bunceton, who sang "True Love," Whither Thou Goest" and "The Wedding Prayer" was sung during the ceremony.

Candlelighters were Miss Jean Payne, sister of the bride, and Mr. Hank Williams, brother of the bridegroom. Miss Payne wore a pink brocade dress and her accessories were white. White carnations formed her corsage.

The bride, escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown of lace over taffeta and nylon net. The fitted bodice was designed with a scalloped neckline and long sleeves tapering to points over the hands. The full lace skirt was parted by many tiny pleats.

Miss Ruth Payne, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Her street length dress was of pink brocade with small pleats encircling the waistline and a low scalloped neck. She carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations.

Mr. Ronald Willams, Kansas City, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man.

Ushers were Mr. Troy Payne, Florence, brother of the bride, and Mr. Donnie Payne, Smithton, cousin of the bride.

The bride's mother wore a blue lace suit with black accessories and her corsage was of white carnations.

A reception was held at the Mt. Olive Church following the ceremony at which 75 guests were present.

The bride's table was covered with a hand crocheted cloth over pink and was centered with a wedding cake. Lighted tapers and bouquets of roses were on each side of the cake.

Miss Linda Homan, Tipton, and Mrs. Sandra Broderson, Florence, served, and Miss Sue Williams, Kansas City, was in charge of the guest book.

For traveling the bride chose a white sheath dress and her corsage was of red roses.

The bride is a graduate of Otterville High School in the class of 1958 and a graduate of St. Luke's Hospital School of Nursing, Kansas City, in 1961. She is employed at St. Luke's Hospital.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Miami, Fla., High School and also attended Miami University. He is employed at St. Luke's Hospital.

The couple will reside at 455 J. C. Nichols Parkway, Kansas City.

Fox-Maynard Vows Read At Normandy

The wedding vows of Miss Lillian Jane Fox to Mr. Keith Hatcher Maynard, St. Louis, were solemnized at 7:30 o'clock Sunday, Feb. 16. The wedding and reception were held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Eyres, Normandy, Mo.

The double ring ceremony was performed under an archway with two seven branch candelabra on each side. The Rev. Stephen Diller, minister of the Church of the Open Door, Webster Groves, officiated at the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Earl F. Retherford, spiritual brother and sister of the bride and bridegroom, were their attendants.

Miss Fox wore a flowing "priestess blue" waltz length chiffon gown. Her veil, an original "colleen" creation was designed especially for the bride —a matching blue weave with lily of the valley insets. The bride carried a bouquet of white gardenias set in the "Star of David." The "something borrowed" were necklace and ear rings of "black" pearls loaned her by their spiritual uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Eyres. The "something old" was a gardenia shade, hand embroidered silk handkerchief belonging to Mrs. Maynard's grandmother.

During the reception the bride and bridegroom enjoyed a renewed fellowship with many of their C. F. O. friends. Many gifts were received.

Mrs. Maynard is organist-director of music of the United Church of Christ and piano accompanist of the Sedalia Men's Choral Club.

Mr. Maynard is an archaeologist, lecturer and factory representative of tailor made and custom made clothing.

Mrs. Harry Daniel Boul

Miss Peggy Bishop Becomes Bride of Mr. Harry D. Boul

Miss Peggy Bishop and Mr. Harry Daniel Boul were united in marriage at the nuptial high mass at St. Patrick's Catholic Church, ten o'clock Saturday morning, February 8. Father J. T. Nolan, pastor, read the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Shirley H. Bishop, 1208 South Washington. The parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Claude L. Boul, 620 West Third. Arrangements of white gladioli and chrysanthemums with emerald palms at either side were the setting for the altar and communion rail. White satin bows marked family pews. A white aisle carpet completed the setting for the bridal procession.

Mrs. Earl Paxton, organist, accompanied Mr. Al Domingue, soloist, who sang "Ave Maria" and "Mother at Your Feet Is Kneeling." The men's choir, directed by Rev. Richard Kalaf, sang the nuptial high mass.

Escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a floor length sheath gown of silk shantung fashioned with a bateau neck and elbow length sleeves. Embroidered appliques accented by seed pearls and crystals, trimmed the front of the skirt and were repeated on the floating back panel which fell from the high waistline in back and extended over the detachable chapel train. Her hand rolled bouffant veil of French illusion was secured by a pillbox of silk shantung in Venice lace and seed pearls accented in back by a tailored bow. She carried a cascade of white roses and lily of the valley showered with white satin streamers.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Catherine Moore, sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Betty Coffman, also sister of the bride, and Miss Rose Ann Menefee. They wore matching costumes of velveteen and satin in emerald green. The velvet bodices were styled with elbow sleeves and bateaux necklines which dipped to Vs in the back. Unpressed pleats released at the waist from the sides and back, controlled the fullness of the short satin belled skirts. Their headdresses were forward petal caps of emerald satin with circle veils and their shoes were tinted in the same shade. They carried cascade bouquets of golden chalice roses showered with bronze satin streamers.

The flower girl, Miss Karen Mollenbeck, niece of the bridegroom, wore a dress of emerald green satin in the same fabric and shade of the bridesmaids with matching headband and carried a white princess basket of rose petals. Master Steven Wayne Moore, nephew of the bride, served as ring bearer.

Mr. Boul was attended by his brother, Mr. Claude Boul, Jr., as best man. Groomsmen were: Mr. Wallace G. Ressel and Mr. Larry Van Ellis. Ushers were: Mr. Harold Dean Bishop, Jefferson City, brother of the bride, and Mr. John L. Boul, brother of the bridegroom.

The bride's mother wore a dusty pink wool crepe two piece suit, with navy blue accessories and a corsage of talisman roses. The mother of the bridegroom wore a navy crepe suit with matching accessories and a corsage of red rose buds.

Immediately following the wedding, the reception was held at the Ambassador Room, Bothwell Hotel. The bride's table was covered with a floor length net cloth over satin. Centering the table was a four tier wedding cake, trimmed with yellow roses and surrounded with smilax and yellow rose buds, the highest tier held an arrangement of three white wedding bells entwined with net. White tapers and silver candelabra were on either side. Mrs. Nancy Bishop, sister-in-law of the bride, poured punch and Mrs. Wilma Bishop, also sister-in-law of the bride, served cake. Mrs. Regina Mollenbeck, sister of the bridegroom, was in charge of the guest book.

Following the reception, the couple left for a wedding trip. The bride wore a white wool dress with red accessories and an ivory orchid corsage. The couple will be at home at D-1 Weather's Kort.

A 1961 graduate of Sacred Heart High School, the bride is employed at The Sedalia Democrat. The bridegroom, also a graduate of Sacred Heart High School, and former student at Rockhurst College, Kansas City, is employed at the office of Town and Country.

Out of town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. James Bishop and family, Kansas City, Dr. and Mrs. Hubert Bishop and Becky, Kansas City, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Dean Bishop, Jefferson City, Miss Linda Zuroweste and Penny Zuroweste, Mrs. George Smith, Kansas City, Mrs. Bert Zalin, Kansas City, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Tomlinson, Kansas City, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Reed and family, Columbia, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Meyer, Kansas City, Kan., Mr. and Mrs. Ted Meyer, Blue Springs, Mr. and Mrs. James A. Mollenbeck and family, Wright City, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Snyder, Kansas City, Mr. Bruce Brorby, Detroit, Mich., and Mr. Kenneth Kure, Wea, Kan.

A kitchen shower was given for the bride by Miss Rose Ann Menefee and Miss Karen Paxton at 2800 Southwest Blvd.

A rehearsal dinner for the bridal party and members of the immediate families was given by the bridegroom's parents at the Old Missouri Homestead.

Miss Virginia L. Hiltenburg Weds Mr. William W. Rose

On February 8, 1964, at 2:30 p.m. in the Smithton Methodist Church with a background of candlelight from two large candelabra, decorated with palm leaves and ribbons on each side of the altar on which were bronze mums backed by yellow stocks in fan shape, Miss Virginia Louise Hiltenburg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence J. Hiltenburg, Route 2, Otterville, Missouri, became the bride of Mr. William W. Ross, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Ross of Stronghurst Ill. The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Earl Dillon of Smithton.

Miss Lynda West of Rochdale Cooperative, Columbia, Missouri, played appropriate organ music including "Thais Meditation" by J. Massenet, a special request of the bride.

Mr. Robert L. Hiltenburg, brother of the bride, from Decatur, Ill., sang two solos, the chorus of "If I Loved You" by Rogers and Hammerstein, also "The Lord's Prayer" by Albert Hay Maylott. He was accompanied at the organ by Miss Lynda West.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, Mr. Clarence J. Hiltenburg, wore a white wool flannel suit, blouse of white satin with gathered inset in front. Her accesories were a pearl necklace and earrings. Her flowers were white carnations formed in a heart and a white gardenia in the center.

Miss Diana Hiltenburg, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Her dress was a light blue mohair sheath with matching bead necklace. She had a white carnation corsage.

The best man, Mr. L. R. Dowell, cousin of the groom, was from Stronghurst, Illinois.

Ushers were Mr. Howard Dale Dirck, Sedalia, Missouri, and Mr. Carl Ray Kehl, Warrensburg, Missouri.

In charge of the guest book was Miss Dee Anna Allen, Rochdale Cooperative, Columbia, Missouri.

The mother of the bride, Mrs. Clarence J. Hiltenburg, wore a navy blue crepe sheath accented by a pleat in front, matching hat pillbox. Her accessories were a pearl necklace and earrings; corsage of white carnations.

Mrs. Lyman Ross, mother of the groom, wore a light blue spring ensemble with matching hat and accessories with a corsage of white carnations.

A reception in the church basement (Activity Hall) immediately following the ceremony was enjoyed by all.

On the bridal table was an ivory lace tablecloth. On this was a beautiful two tier wedding cake, topped with white wedding bells. This was surrounded by green ivy. A glass punch bowl was also on the table. Matching double candlesticks were on each end of the table. Refreshments of cake, strawberry punch, mints and nuts were served. Assisting at the reception were Mrs. Carl Kehl, Warrensburg Mo., Mrs. Howard Dale Dirck, Sedalia, and Miss Norma Matthews, president of Rochdale Cooperative, Columbia.

The bride is a graduate of the University of Missouri January, 1964, with a B.S. in Education, a double major in history and English. She was a member of Rochdale Cooperative, Columbia.

The groom attended Iowa State, was a member of Alpha Sigma Phi Fraternity.

After a wedding trip in south Missouri, Independence and Kansas City, the couple will live in Stronghurst Ill.

THE FURNITURE STORE SALESMAN

Mrs. Studer

The attitude, knowledge, and courtesy of a furniture salesman are important factors in the success or failure of any furniture store.

Although his job is "selling furniture", it is the manner in which he does this selling that is important to both the store and the customer.

A good furniture salesman must be many things. First of all he must like his work. He must have a thorough knowledge of the many products he sells and he must know interior decorating.

In recent years the furniture business has become a "decorating business" and the good furniture salesman, by both experience and study, must have the answers to customer questions about layout, color scheme and other pertinent matters.

Our furniture salesmen are willing and able to help you and to propose a furniture arrangement that you will like, within the budget which you can afford.

We invite you to visit us and take advantage of our decorator service without cost or obligation.

Call TA 6-2122 or stop in at Homakers. Let us assist you in your home decorating and planning. There is no obligation.

'Ferninsters' 50 Years Ago

How difficult it is for a person to change his point of view once determined and expressed.

Nations resist opinions of others to save face. So it is in many instances with individuals who are unyielding to reason or argument even though they know their own position is weak.

There is nothing new in human obstinacy. In this connection a French philosopher, Montaigne, pretty well expresses it: "Obstinacy and heat of opinion are the surest proof of stupidity. Is there anything so assured, resolved, disdainful, contemplative, solemn, and serious, as an ass?"

By comparison that may have been stronger than we intended to use in reference to often expressed attitudes concerning community progress. Some people look ahead only a block, some a half mile, and others to the horizon and beyond.

What got us off on this tangent today was a paragraph in the obituary of a highly respected fellow Sedalian, Harvey Keens, who died at 95. It read as follows:

"He was president of the Sedalia park board at the time it purchased Liberty Park. Public criticism was so great for spending money for that large amount of land, which could never be used, that none of the council members got back into office."

Over half a century ago many Sedalians were indignant over purchasing land for recreational purposes "which could never be used!" Their opinion was so firm on this subject they dislodged from office the councilmen who approved it!

Egads! What a shock would those people receive if they had a look at what is out at Liberty park today — over 32 acres of ground, substantial buildings, stadium, swimming pool, ball grounds, convention hall, lake, gardens etc., worth a half million dollars and a recreational attraction not only for many thousands of Sedalians but hordes of Central Missourians who come here to enjoy its comforts and facilities.

Not only do we have Liberty Park but six other parks in the community.

Harvey Keens was one of the farsighted Sedalians who stood by an opinion on a matter relating to Sedalia's future needs and development. At the risk of displeasing vocal objectors to the purchase they bought Liberty park without waiting an interminable period for the obstinate individuals to change their point of view which might have taken 50 years.

Sedalia needs to encourage the development of community-minded citizens who are willing to risk public displeasure in matters pertaining to progress.

By reason of recent events we already have the nucleus which should be nurtured.

DROVERS JOURNAL (Chicago): The Myth of Under-Representation. — A widely held opinion around the nation, particularly among big city people, is that urban areas are grossly under-represented in the House of Representatives in Congress.

A recent Congressional Quarterly study of the population characteristics of the 435 Congressional districts disproves this belief. The most even distribution of the population would probably involve a net shift of only 16 seats out of the 435. Urban areas—central cities of over 50,000—would gain additional Congressmen and the surrounding suburbs would pick up 10 House seats.

Even if the net national shift of 16 seats suggested by the Congressional Quarterly study was carried out, the carping might continue. Perhaps the fundamental reason is that the federal system crisscrossed the nation with state lines that cannot be jumped in Congressional districting.

Other reasons that make it impossible to give the population groups—urban, suburban, and rural—the number of seats that corresponds to their national population totals include the Constitution's guaranty of one seat to each state, no matter what its size, and the mixed character of many population areas. Many urban centers are found in the midst of geographically large rural areas.

Right now the urban population of the U.S. is 32.9 per cent of the total, suburban 20.3 per cent, and rural 46.8 per cent. The actual breakdown of seats in the House is urban 103 (24 per cent), suburban 50 (11 per cent), rural 203 (46 per cent), and mixed 79 (19 per cent).

Only a national system of proportional representation would make it possible for each of the three popular groups—urban, suburban, rural—to have the same percentage of U.S. House seats they represent in the total population. This would mean all state and district lines would have to be eliminated. Such a national system is opposed by virtually every U.S. political leader and political scientist.

Myths often are a long time dying. But we hope these facts contribute to the quick demise of this one.

Looking Backward

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Dr. M. E. Gouge was re-elected a commissioner of the Twelve Mile Road district by the Pettis County Court, Sedalia City Council and Mayor.

FORTY YEARS AGO

The business streets of Sedalia were freed of practically all the coating of mud and ice deposited during the past few days. They were flushed with fire hoses by city employees. The trash and slush was carried to the gutters and sewerage entries.

Stainless Steels

Nickel-containing stainless steels were discovered and developed in Europe prior to World War I and were produced for the first time commercially in the United States in 1926. Today, the U. S. is the largest producer and consumer of the commodity.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Washington Portrait Found In Calcutta

(Editor's Note—Drew Pearson is traveling. In his absence this column is written by his associate, Jack Anderson.)

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON—As the nation celebrated George Washington's birthday, the last remaining Gilbert Stuart portrait of Washington has been dug out of the dust of far-off Calcutta and delivered to the capital that bears his name.

After an $8,000 cleaning, it has been pronounced by the National Art Gallery one of the great art discoveries of this generation.

Behind the discovery is a fascinating story.

It was located by Duncan Emmerich, U.S. information chief in Calcutta, in the home of a Calcutta merchant named Mallik. This was just about the last place in the world one might expect to find one of the original Gilbert Stuart portraits of George Washington, painted in 1799, shortly before Washington's death.

The portrait was traced back to Ramdoolal Dey, a famous Calcutta merchant who had befriended the United States at the turn of the 19th century. His father and mother had been killed when he was an infant, and he was raised by a grandfather who was a professional beggar.

Young Ramdoolal Dey found work on a merchant vessel, eventually acquired his own merchant fleet, and became known as the Rothschild of the east. He befriended some wealthy New England merchants, who wanted to send him an appropriate gift.

Gift to the Indians

They selected the portrait of Washington, which was shipped to Calcutta in 1801. There it remained, hanging among the draperies of Indian merchants, until Emmerich discovered it.

First, he tried to persuade the State Department to buy it. Though the painting was valued around $250,000 and the State Department could have secured it for only $20,000, no money was available.

Brooklyn Congressman John Rooney, the eagle-eyed economizer who sits on State Department appropriations, doesn't permit expenditures for such side purposes.

Emmerich turned to Czech-born Erik Couders, a naturalized American citizen now living in Marble Head, Mass., who helped develop the bazooka anti-tank gun and gave it to the U.S. government free of charge.

Emmerich persuaded Couders to buy the rare portrait, though nobody could swear it was a Stuart at the time of the purchase.

Now that it has been cleaned, it has been identified as the same pose as that now hanging in the East Room of the White House. This was the famous portrait which Dolly Madison rescued when the British burned the White House in 1814.

Its companion painting, sent to Calcutta 163 years ago, is larger (six by nine feet) than any other known Washington portrait. Happily, it is now back home among the historical treasures of the American people.

Faith for Our Time

And Jesus, walking by the sea of Galilee, saw two brethren, Simon called Peter, and Andrew his brother, casting a net into the sea: for they were fishers. And he saith unto them, Follow me, and I will make you fishers of men. And they straightway left their nets, and followed him . . . And Jesus went about all Galilee, teaching in their synagogues, and preached the gospel of the kingdom, and healing all manner of sickness and all manner of disease among the people.

Matthew 4:18-20, 23

What Christ is saying always, what he never swerves from saying, what he says a thousand times and in a thousand different ways, but always with a central unity of belief, is this: "I am my father's son, and you are my brothers."

We the Women

Primer for Mothers-in-Law

By Ruth Millett
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

A reader who claims she has a "wonderful mother-in-law" describes her in terms that ought to give a lot of women a hint as to what makes a mother-in-law a jewel in her daughter-in-law's eyes.

"She brags about me to my husband — calling his attention to how clever I was to make professional-looking curtains for the living room, what a good cook I am, how much she likes the way I've fixed up our house, etc.

"She admires the clothes I buy and the things I select for the house without asking me what they cost, or implying that I am being extravagant with her son's money.

"She gives me her opinion when I ask for it. She DOESN'T volunteer advice or try to convince me that I am making a mistake to do this or that.

"She asks, 'Is there anything I can do to help out?' when there is illness in the family or the work piles up, but she doesn't act hurt if I assure her that I have everything under control.

"She loves her grandchildren, but never tries to tell me how to raise them or subtly criticizes me for the way I handle them.

"I can tell her anything I like, knowing she won't discuss my personal business with her friends.

"She is good company because she is essentially a happy, outgoing sort of person who laughs easily — even at herself.

"But, most important of all, she treats me like a daughter, rather than like a daughter-in-law. That sums up everything else I have said about her."

Any mother-in-law ought to get some good ideas out of that letter.

Appendicitis strikes men more than women, in a ratio of three to two, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Side Glances — By Gill Fox

"She's terribly close-mouthed. I've known her three months and I don't know YET exactly to the penny what her husband makes!"

FINDING THE WAY

'It's YOUR Fault!'

BY RALPH W. LOEW, D.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Nearly everyone at some time or another attempts self-jusification. In offices, men try to tell why they lost their temper. Snarling at the children, speaking harshly to wife or husband, rationalizing or describing our reasons for our apathies in areas of social concern—all of these are common efforts to justify ourselves.

In the midst of an astonishing upheaval in previously-accepted moral standards, individuals, corporations and nations seem bent on explaining why their behavior must be different. It's as though the confessional had moved out of the privacy of privileged conversation into the public shouting of our actions.

It's into this mood of self-justification that the man of religion comes to talk about justification by faith. To the men of faith in ancient and modern times, one couldn't justify self by a coverup reflecting holiness. The prophets thundered against those who plotted evil in the night and then smugly walked to the place of worship in the daytime.

Jesus decried the man who boasted of his fasting and tithing as though he deserved special recognition. St. Paul warned the Corinthian church that even burning at the stake could be meaningless if it was not motivated by love.

We are justified by God's love, not by our own rationalizing.

What most of us neglect to understand is that we are meant to become new persons, not patched-up old sinners. The moral revolutions grew from this understanding.

The revulsion against slavery occurred when it began to dawn that you couldn't just readjust certain of the ways by which you subjugate people. It required a new kind of thinking which acknowledged the dignity of every person, and his possible growth as a responsible individual.

The power to become this new person is not an easy acquisition. Men who have literally changed understand the struggle. It starts when we forsake the "acoustical illusion" of listening to our own rationalizations, and begin hearing something of the meanings beyond OUR meaning. We become less concerned about how we behave —and more concerned about what we are coming to be.

That takes care of the behavior. That takes away crude self-justification. It moves us into the place where we can see something of what God is doing.

Rebirth is painful, but it's a great moment when we move past the rationalization of what we are into the knowledge of what God is doing — even through us!

Bobby Pins to the Rescue

By Polly Cramer
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

DEAR POLLY — A fastidious man caught away from home without shirt collar tabs can borrow two bobby pins and push one side of a pin into the little slot in the back of the collar tab. He can borrow a third pin and use it for a tie bar. Push the bobby pin across the shirt front and with the top of the bobby pin catch the seam lining opening of the tie, leaving the other half of the tie beneath the pin. It does not show from the front. Hope this helps any men folks from 16 up. — MOTHER

DEAR POLLY — A different and nice gift for a new mother is a silver picture frame with a space for engraving the name of initials of the baby. As a former nurse, I have given quite a few such gifts. All were appreciated as a wonderful way to display and preserve that all-important first picture of baby. — MRS. J. A. M.

DEAR POLLY — A wonderful gift for an invalid is an inexpensive pair of binoculars. With these, the shut-in can bring birds, animals and people practically into the room and make life far more interesting. — MRS. E. L. R.

DEAR POLLY — I find a strainer from an old six-cup coffee maker and a one-pound canister-type coffee can are a good combination. The strainer fits the top of the coffee can and I use it for straining bacon fat in the can. When it is full, I put on the plastic can cover and put the can in the refrigerator. I clean the strainer and put it on another coffee can. There is no second handling of the fat. — MRS. J. N.

DEAR POLLY — When raveling any hand-knit garment, wind the crinkly yarn on a wire coat hanger with the curved ends pushed in. Then suds the wool (still on the hanger) and hang by the hook to dry. Rewind and reknit. Wool, so washed, has no tangles and is like new. — MRS. W. P. H.

DEAR POLLY — When my 3-year-old daughter's tights or leotards are no longer new looking but still have a lot of wear in them, I buy a yard of printed flannel in a color that goes well with the pants. I make a top of the print, trim with a little lace and my child has an extra pair of pajamas for a very small cost.—A CONSTANT READER

The Right Key

We find ourselves surrounded
With many a door shut tight
And each of us has fumbled
With a key we thought was right,
For youth must find the one that fits
And easily will turn
For each through a door must go
His livelihood to earn —
Sometimes it is the first key
That unlocks for him his door
And through it he will enter
To find so much in store,
It suits his every talent
It suits his every skill,
And every dream he's ever had
He knows it will fulfill—
But there are some who struggle
With doors trying keys,
Sometimes they're sick with worry
And feel they're hard to please—
And so they go from door to door —
Then suddenly they find
A key that opens up a door
Of exactly the right kind;
Oh, some have quite a choice of keys
And some have only one —
A little job, perhaps it is,
But one that is well done,
It isn't a man's prestige
Or the money that he makes
It's the job that he is doing
And the pride in it he takes;
And the doors that have been opened
With what seems are golden keys,
An unseen hand has turned it
In the keyhole just for these,
Sure, they may have made an effort
And worked hard for what they earned
But somewhere along the line
There was someone else concerned,
No man goes up the ladder,
Unless they get a foothold
Through a friend or lucky break—
The keys may open big doors
That to wealth may lead the way.
Or they may open narrow doors
Where one may need to stay —
Yet, the doors do not matter
Or even what's inside,
It's not the job a man holds
But just how hard he's tried —
Christ didn't look for great ones
When He chose his favored ten—
He looked not for big successes
But into the hearts of men,
And when one turned against Him
To betray Him with a kiss,
'Twas desire for material things
That caused a thing like this,
So it isn't so important
Just how you make a living,
It's the duties you perform
And the joy that you are giving,
It isn't climbing upward
To some glittering desire —
It's the good that you are doing
And the things that you inspire;
For when the Lord looks over us,
Each and every one,
He'll not stop to count our money
But He'll count the things we've done.

Democrat Pick-ups

Sooner or Later it was bound to happen.

The young woman breezed into her office, sat down and started to take off her boots — then there was a little groan—and an "Oh, No!"

In bad weather she has always worn her boots to work, but kept a pair of shoes in the desk drawer so she could put them on until she was ready to go out again. Then she would take off the shoes, put them back in the drawer and put on her boots. It has always worked well until a recent weekend. But with the weatherman having a gay old time mixing up the weather with snowflakes and sunshine — she got a little mixed up, too.

It was a nice clear day, with the streets dry in most places, so she didn't need the boots. And since she wanted to go downtown for a bit after work, she put on her shoes and went sailing out, leaving her boots in the office.

Then the weatherman decided he had done a pretty good job getting rid of the other snow, so he would just send another. So she needed her boots. Some of her family came down and got the boots for her.

And then came Monday morning. She put on her boots and went to work, never thinking about the shoes until she got there. And it is a good thing she has a family who can take care of such situations for her. Because she called home and someone brought her shoes. But, until they did, she had to clomp around the office in her boots. --H. L.

Provisional Premier For New Regime

BRAZZAVILLE, Congo Republic (AP) — Jean Hilaire Aubame, chief political foe of neighboring Gabon's ousted President Leon M'ba, has been named provisional premier in the wake of Tuesday's bloodless coup in the former French African colony.

Aubame, 51, who heads a 10-man government, said in a broadcast from the Gabon capital of Libreville that he would respect the international commitments of M'ba's pro-French regime.

He appealed for calm and said the interests of foreigners in Gabon would be respected.

He told Gabon's 420,000 inhabitants: "It is because of your anguished and repeated appeals and to spare our dear Gabon from a general revolt and its consequences that our soldiers and gendarmes have just freed the country of a regime which was leading it fatally to disorder."

The four-man revolutionary committee which directed the coup proclaimed a state of emergency and set a dusk-to-dawn curfew. Assembly of more than five persons was forbidden.

A member of the revolutionary committee, SubLt. Daniel Mbene, indicated the military would exercise veto power over the provisional government. Mbene said Lt. Jacques Monbo, a gendarme officer and a member of the committee, would supervise the government.

Other members of the committee are Lt. Jean Essone and Sub-Lt. Daniel Nbo Edou.

The coup came after a long power struggle between M'ba, head of the Gabonese Democratic Bloc and Aubame, leader of the Democratic and Socialist Union.

M'ba last month dissolved Gabon's 67-mamber Parliament and called new elections for Sunday to choose a 47-member assembly. The president said the membership was being reduced as an economy measure. Opposition sources charged that the move was aimed against Aubame's party, which put up no candidates.

Gabon's 450-man army, which had pledged loyalty to President M'ba a month ago, took over without firing a shot.

The U.S. State Department nounced in Washington that some 150 Americans living in Gabon were reported safe. They included 30 staff members of the U.S. Embassy and their dependents, 70 Peace Corps volunteers, 25 missionaries and dependents and 15 engineers.

American officials said there was no indication of a Communist hand in the uprising.

There was no immediate word of Dr. Albert Schweitzer, the Nobel Peace Prize winner who has operated a hospital for the past 50 years at Lambarene, a jungle community 100 miles southeast of Libreville.

War Crime Trials Drag On 19 Years After Nazi Fall

BONN, Germany (AP) — A commandant of a Nazi concentration camp is sentenced to life in prison.

A Cabinet minister quit because of evidence that he sat on a Nazi "special court."

Nearly 19 years after the collapse of nazism there are still West Germans doggedly trying to jail Nazi war criminals. Other West Germans are trying just as doggedly to conceal their past. A third group, which seems to include most of the population, is trying successfully to forget the whole thing.

At any given moment there may be several war crimes trials in progress in West Germany. They often drag on for months and get little public attention.

But one is the biggest that West Germans have organized since the war: 22 men accused of taking part in the killing of millions at the Auschwitz extermination camp. The sessions began just before Christmas and may continue for a year.

War crimes trials began at Nuernberg in 1946.

U.S., British and French military courts sentenced 5,025 people, of whom 806 were put to death. The Soviet Union and other East European countries jailed or executed thousands more. West German officials estimate that their own authorities have tried another 5,500.

Prosecutors were not coordinated in West Germany until 1958, when a Central War Crimes Office was set up at Ludwigsburg. It estimated that about 80,000 Germans had taken part in Nazi mass murders. By that time the big majority had either died, escaped or gone underground.

Another 1,000 or so West Germans remain to be tried, officials say, and the trials may last into 1970 or beyond. In 1970 a statute of limitations will make it impossible to prosecute a Nazi murderer unless legal action has been taken in his case before that date.

Personal investigations are long and difficult because of the length of time that has elapsed, the reluctance of some German witnesses to testify and the difficulty of getting reliable evidence from behind the Iron Curtain.

Musial, one of baseball's great stars, was appointed by President Johnson to head the council last Friday. He was asked if he'd urge Johnson to take a stand against smoking.

"I haven't been on the job long enough yet to know what I'm supposed to tell the President," he replied.

Musial was in Atlantic City to attend a conference of educators.

In Ranks With Area Servicemen

TURNER AFB, Ga. — Joseph H. White has been promoted to airman second class in the United States Air Force.

Airman White, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Walters of Knob Noster, is assigned to the 1370th Field Maintenance Squadron here as an aircraft engine mechanic.

SEYMOUR JOHNSON AFB, N. C. — Airman First Class Herbert E. Ballenger of Marshall, has been named outstanding patrolman in his air police unit here.

As a result of his selection, based on exemplary conduct and duty performance, Airman Ballenger was awarded a three-day pass, a certificate of merit, and a specially engraved name tag denoting the distinction.

The airman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Orbie Ballenger of Route 1, Marshall attended the Sweet Springs High School. His wife, Martha, is the daughter of Mrs. Wilma McFatridge of Yuma, Arizona.

Missionary Group Takes To Beaches

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—The sun was warm, the drinks cool. College students from throughout the nation crowded the beach.

Then a truck appeared, bearing a group of men. They began a show of music and talk. The punch line was Christian guidance.

Their safari on the sands was the "Daytona Beach Mission."

Students on annual Easter vacation flings on Florida beaches have, on past occasions, kicked up their heels a little too high. It happened at Daytona and civic leaders invited the Fellowship of Christian Athletes to direct missions during the vacation periods.

Because of the mission's success, leader Ed Beck said in Louisville during a visit, the plan is to double the number of participants.

Beck, who captained Kentucky's national champion basketball team in 1957-58, now is a Methodist minister. He is director of the National Department of Evangelists for the Church, at Nashville, Tenn.

Among those taking part in the successful Daytona Beach mission were Bill Wade, quarterback for the Chicago Bears football team; Don Shinnick, Presbyterian minister and linebacker for the Baltimore Colts; Bill Krisher, captain of the Dallas Texans; Bob Pettit of the St. Louis Hawks basketball team, and Tony Fontane, recording artist.

"We've got about five minutes to convince them," Beck said. "You don't have a captive audience. They'll turn and walk away if they don't like you."

Later, if a student wishes to consult one of the mission group he can go to a meeting room staffed 24 hours a day.

The objective is "to make an impact, to let the student know the church cares to plant the incentive," Beck said.

The mission members simply let the students know what Holy Week—the time of the Daytona visit—meant to them. No sermons were preached.

Although the students may have gone there looking for "booze, women, a good time, or sun," Beck said, "I think they're interested in what life is about. And we're sharing what we believe is the ultimate meaning of life with them."

ON THE PROWL—No more short roles, fast takes, or weekly video shows for Edie Adams for the present. After a nationwide night club tour, she'll be looking for leading roles in pictures. So says Edie.

Hope Recalls 'Marvelous' Thirty Years

HOLLLYWOOD (AP) — "The secret of our marriage," cracked Bob Hope, "is that I'm out of town so much. I write such wonderful postcards."

"They have been 30 marvelous, exciting years," he said. "When I think of the things that have happened to me in those 30 years, it floors me. I have no regrets. I've loved every minute."

Bob was at work this week, making a story comedy with Eva Marie Saint for his television series. He does not often reminisce, but this time he seemed to enjoy looking back on his courtship and marriage.

"I was in 'Roberta,' " he recalled, "and George Murphy said he wanted me to come over to the Vogue Club and hear a singer named Dolores Reade. So I went there with him and saw this girl, who was a fine singer and good-looking, too."

Bob was much impressed with her, and he enlisted her in his act after he left "Roberta."

"What got me in the marrying mood was when she left me to go to Florida," he said. "Until then I was a confirmed bachelor. I had a Pierce Arrow with chauffeur, an apartment on Central Park West with a butler, and I was really living.

"But when Dolores went to Florida, I really missed her. I was on the phone to her all the time. When she returned, I proposed to her in the Pierce Arrow, parked in front of the Delmonico Hotel where she lived—I used to give the chauffeur sleeping pills."

Dolores said yes, and they were married on a quick weekend in Erie, Pa. They kept the marriage secret for three months.

Dolores continued singing until Bob went to Hollywood to start his movie career. Then she retired to keep the home fires burning for Bob and to rear their four children, all adopted.

Doesn't she get weary of his absences?

"You bet your life she does," he said. "But I'm home a lot more now. I've slowed down a great deal—I've had to.

"I think the real secret of our success together is that we have mutual interests. We both like the business. We like to play golf, and we take golfing vacations together. We enjoy each other's company."

She was released on $50 bond for appearance in Police Court here on Feb. 24.

Girl Scout Notes

Brownie Troop 404, Heber Hunt School, entertained Brownie Troop 428, Heber Hunt School, with a Valentine tea at the home of Mrs. Ira White. Thirty-seven Brownies were present along with their troop leaders, Mrs. White, Mrs. Rick Fullerton and Mrs. H. J. Wild. The officers of Troop 404 presided at the tea table which was decorated in a Valentine motif. A game was played and then the girls recited the Brownie Promise. Steve White performed feats of magic and was assisted by his Brownie Scout sister, Leesa. Several action songs and rounds were sung to close the tea.

The Brownie Patrol of Combination Troop 307, St. Paul's Lutheran School, gave a Thinking Day program for their mothers and the Junior Scouts and mothers. Their theme was Hawaiian. An original play was presented. Grass shirts and leis made of tissue paper were worn. Robin Pritchard read two poems. Each Brownie gave a valentine she had made to her mother. The troop leader, Mrs. Richard Felkner, and assistant leader, Ann Hackman, were each presented with a gift from the troop. The Brownie assistaant, Mrs. Wayne Pritchard, served Valentine cookies, potato chips and valentine candy. The Brownies who put on the program were Robin Pritchard, Mary Dale, Linda Deininger, Brenda Gertz, Rebecca Jaeger, Janet Kreisel, Melanie Kaufman, Lois Monsees, Melissa Morrow, Sharon Trigg, Joyce Wheeler, Gloria Young and Barbara Knothe.

Junior Troop 405, Whittier School, had a Valentine party. Cathy Cox, Connie Reed, Sue Bishop, Linda Wells and Marianna Bredwell were in charge of the party. After dues and attendance were taken, the game "Going to California" was played. Refreshments were served and then another game was played. The leaders of this troop ar Mrs. Burns, Mrs. Wells, Mrs. Reed and Mrs. Harris. —Penny Cordes, Scribe.

Brownie Troop 315, Hubbard School, met on Monday with 11 girls present. A Thinking Day project was planned. Marcia Williams, a former member of the troop, has moved to Ireland with her Air Force family. Each girl in the troop wrote a note to Marcia which the leader, Mrs. Olander Black, will send to her. They are asking Marcia to tell them about scouting in Ireland. The Brownie Smile Song was sung and the girls were dismissed with taps.

Brownie Troop 303, Heber Hunt School, met Wednesday. Cookies were furnished and served by Jamie Schumaker and Lori Evans. Miss Carol Riesdorph, sister of one of the Brownies, led the girls in singing old songs and learning new songs. At the start of the meeting a jar of cream was given to a Brownie to shake and pass on until all the Brownies had shaken the jar and the cream turned into butter. The girls enjoyed the butter they had made on hot biscuits baked by Mrs. Melvin Marriott, leader. Two Valentines were made and decorated. Mrs. James Schumaker, assistant leader, was in charge of games and prizes were won by Paula Dowdy and Becky Phillips.

Junior Troop 397, Wesley Methodist Church, met on Tuesday with 28 girls present. Four folk dances previously learned were danced. The troop discussed their service project for this year which will be to stuff envelopes for the Easter Seal campaign. They will be assisted by Troop 361 from Sacred Heart School and Troop 405 from Whittier School. Next week the troop will do potato printing and each girl is to bring a potato and pocket knife. The leaders are Mrs. Harold Lane and Mrs. Dale Miley.

East Baptist Women Hold February Meet

At the February meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of the East Sedalia Baptist Church, Mrs. Don Walters was elected program chairman. Also, Mrs. Hazel Rochefeller was elected to serve as enlistment chairman until Mrs. Owen Fox, who is now residing in Columbia, returns to Sedalia this summer.

Preceding the meeting a covered dish dinner was served in the church dining hall, with the Livingston Circle assisting in the serving. Guests were members of the Lillian Wasson Circle.

The executive meeting was held at 1 p.m., with Mrs. Kenneth Neill, president, presiding at this and the business meeting which followed. This was opened by all singing the hymn, "O, God, Our Help in Ages Past." Mrs. Lloyd Abney led the singing with Mrs. Earl Parker at the piano.

Mrs. Neill announced that the WMS had received the advanced award and the 75th certificate. The YWA honor certificate was presented to Mrs. Albert Smith, YWA leader. Mrs. Lloyd Neitzert accepted certificates for their junior GA groups.

Mrs. Lloyd Abney, mission study chairman, announced the book, "Apogee," would be reviewed March 5. Mrs. Bruce Ulmer read the recommendation of the executive committee which was that the WMF pay the registration and housing of YWA's and counsellor to Bolivar.

Mrs. W. D. Burlingame, prayer chairan, assisted by Mrs. Lloyd Neitzert, presented the call to prayer using Ecc. 3:11 and Matthew 24: 1-14. Mrs. George Walters led in prayer.

March 1-8 will be the Week of Prayer for home missions with the theme being "In Freedom's Holy Light." The offering goal is $469.60. Mrs. Burlingame read an inspirational letter from her daughter in Klicatat, Wash., telling about the Baptist work there.

Mrs. Neill asked that members bring worn sheets and blankets to the March meeting to be given to Buena Vista.

Mrs. Walters presented a program telling of the work of the chaplains. Those assisting on the program were: Mrs. Aubrey Moore, Mrs. Edward Worley, Mrs. Vern Abney, Mrs. J. N. Cameron, Mrs. Hazel Rockefeller, Mrs. Lloyd Neitzert and Mrs. Stuart Pace.

Prayers were offered by Mrs. Joe Waters and Mrs. Jack Butler.

The Freshest Boy in School

This famous author was barely out of short pants when he learned that humor is a funny thing: it can get you into trouble—and out of it, too

By CLEVELAND AMORY

Editor-in-Chief of "Celebrity Register" and author of "The Proper Bostonians," "The Last Resorts," and "Who Killed Society?"

IN THE GOOD OLD Golden Rule days, going off to boarding school was one of life's major transitions: the first definite plunge into the adult world.

Indeed, with it went the actual symbol of the change—the first wearing of "longs." Today, as far as I can ascertain, children are born in longs—to mothers in bikinis.

In any case, my school was Milton Academy, and my first subject that first day was history. Our "master," as we called our teachers, was a short, fierce man with a great flare for the dramatic.

As he stood in front of a large wall map, he said: "This was in the days, boys, when not England but Holland ruled the waves." At this, he turned and rapped the map of Holland smartly with the stick he held in his hand. "Why," he said, "the ships from Holland even swept up the English Channel itself!" At this, with a final dramatic flourish, he turned full around—and smote the map again.

His dramatics, the way he stood with his stick, and Holland—all of it suddenly conjured up in my mind a can which reposed on a shelf in our pantry at home.

"Why," I said quietly, "the old Dutch cleansers!"

One boy laughed—that I will always remember. To this day, he is my friend. The others must have thought it was funny, but they deserted me. Quickly, though, the one laugh died, and, with infinite slowness it seemed, the master first put down his stick, then took off his glasses, and finally looked directly at me. In private-school teaching in those days, sarcasm was in flower.

"Apparently," he said, "you have something you wish to tell us. Could those of us who did not have the privilege of hearing it kindly hear it again?"

I tried to speak, but no words came. The master's face now seemed enormous. "Say it again," he said sternly.

Even today I might hesitate—the best of jokes rarely bears repetition, and wisecracks almost never. But I had no choice. The whole world seemed to be closing in. "The old Dutch cleansers," I said. "Sir."

This time there was, of course, no laugh. There was, in fact, not a single sound. Indeed, for what seemed an endless period of time, there was absolutely nothing—nothing but an awful silence. Then, like a voice out of a fog, the master spoke again: "What's your name?"

Anything would have been better than that silence. "Clip, sir," I said quickly.

"Your real name," he said. I had, of course, given him my nickname.

"Cleveland, sir," I said. Now it was the conversation, not the silence, which seemed endless.

"Your last name," he shouted.

"Amory, sir," I said. I was not trying to be rude, but the strain was telling.

Then, again for what seemed an impossible length of time, there was nothing. Finally, quietly but icily, he pronounced my doom. "Amory," he said, "I am going to give you six marks!"

At this, the room was a buzz of excitement. To get six marks, or demerits, in a whole term was bad enough—three marks meant raking leaves all day Saturday. But six marks in one day, and in one's first day—why, it was unthinkable.

At last, mercifully, the bell rang. We could go. But the master was not through.

"Amory," he said, "you come here."

THE REST OF THE BOYS, with sidelong glances, filed out. All alone, the master seemed, if possible, even more terrifying. "Amory," he said, "Milton Academy was founded in 1798. In my considered judgment, you are the freshest boy who has ever been here."

I just stood there—at least there was nothing that had to be said to that. Then, unbelievably, he smiled! I didn't know he could—but he did. I looked again. I didn't believe it. He seemed to read my mind. "I am smiling, Amory, because, upon reconsideration, I think what you said was funny. Upon reconsideration, too, I am going to give you not six marks but three. Now get out of here."

"Thank you," I said.

"Thank you, what?" he said.

"Thank you, sir," I said.

I'm afraid it was more a case of overinspiration than inspiration. But, nevertheless, that moment was a memorable one for me. I have often thought of it afterwards, and, in its curious way, I think it has helped sustain me through a long career of outspokenness—which my not-so-loyal opposition often chooses to call my "controversialness."

It has been said that you can catch more flies with honey than with vinegar, but I have a sneaking suspicion you can catch most of all with that old Dutch cleansing saving grace—humor.

Indifference: The Subtlest Sin in Marriage

GEORGE BEECH and Kathy Lang were high-school sweethearts in a small Midwestern city. After graduation, George went away to an Ivy League college, but he never forgot Kathy. Eventually, he came back and married her.

Their union appeared prosperous and tranquil. It was blessed by two fine sons, who were the image of their father. Everyone envied George and Kathy and considered their marriage perfect.

Then one day, a month or two after their 23rd wedding anniversary, George asked Kathy for a divorce—he had fallen in love with another woman, a young stenographer in his law office.

It was like a bolt out of the blue to Kathy. She couldn't begin to understand it. Neither could her family nor any of her intimate friends. Neither, for that matter, could George. As he told Dr. O'Neil, the psychologist-marriage counselor who finally straightened things out between the Beeches: "All my life, I thought I was perfectly content with Kathy, but suddenly there I was, head over heels in love with Marianne."

Dr. O'Neil did, as I've indicated, bring George and Kathy back together. But it required the utmost delicacy. One of the most difficult challenges those of us in the helping professions ever face is leading a sweet, loyal woman like Kathy Beech to understand that she has been an unsatisfactory wife—that she has virtually driven her husband into the arms of a paramour.

Kathy had been practicing a cardinal sin of marriage: indifference.

Of course, Kathy loved George; she loved him deeply, and he, in turn, worshipped her. No couple could have had more respect and basic consideration for each other. But Kathy never recognized that all men, even comfortable middle-aged husbands who are running to paunch, must have romance in their lives.

Some Attention, Please

Do you remember a song hit from about 10 years back called "Little Things Mean a Lot"? The author of that lyric was on the right track, but he just missed hitting the bull's-eye. In the song, you will recall, it's the girl who appeals to the man to "touch my hair when you pass my chair, say I look nice when I'm not . . ."

Well and good! But psychologists now know that in actual fact it's the men, the misnamed stronger sex, who are most likely to shrivel up and die emotionally if they don't get their fill of flattering little attentions from their spouses. Underneath his prosaic exterior, every husband feels just a little bit like Sir Lancelot—or wishes he did. And he wants his wife to act accordingly.

If one of Kathy's children was sick or if she was planning a big party or if the dry cleaners couldn't guarantee the juice stains would come off the new slip covers, these domestic issues would be uppermost in Kathy's mind; she received George's advances mechanically.

On the eve of George's departures for business trips, Kathy didn't sigh that she'd be "lost without him." Instead, she assured him, as she packed his shirts, that she'd be "just fine."

On evenings when George returned home bursting to elicit his wife's admiration for his latest bit of legal brilliance, she—like the conscientious cook she was—generally responded with something like: "Can you hold it a few minutes, dear? I've got to baste the roast."

George couldn't quite put his finger on it, but after a while he began to suffer from a vague sense of disappointment in his marriage. He was a 20th-century knight defending his split-level castle, wasn't he? Well, where were the accolades? Where the warm kisses and worshipful sighs? If only Kathy weren't so "sensible."

After a time, George entered what psychologists call "a state of negative readiness." He knew his marriage was felt to be a model one, but deep down he was dissatisfied and unfulfilled. He wasn't looking, but he was "available."

George's grumbling took place on an unconscious level, of course, and right up to the moment when he stumbled into Marianne's arms, he believed himself as happy as any husband.

Marianne, by the way, was a silly young thing who couldn't hold a candle to Kathy, even in looks, but who squealed with delight every time the "boss" cracked a joke, gazed at him adoringly, and hung on his every word.

Kathy was lucky. She was tender enough to forgive George for his giant misstep and wise enough to profit from her own past thoughtlessness. She was woman enough to make a new start—which was all George ever wanted.

Countless "good" wives in Kathy's position never do learn. They wreck their precious marriages on the rock of indifference. Indifference isn't like spendthriftism, laziness, nagging, or most of the other home-wrecking vices. It doesn't cast a long, visible shadow. It isn't talked about publicly; it isn't talked about privately. In fact, it's barely even recognized by the aggrieved spouse. Can you imagine a sane, self-respecting husband saying to his wife, "Darling, I want you to be more worshipful."

Of course you can't, and neither can I. But even though most men would sooner die than admit it, out-and-out "soupy" female adoration is what they deeply crave. Try it! If you can manage to serve some up with breakfast, you'll make your husband's whole day—and it doesn't even matter if you forget to take the curlers out.

Put Your Wife on the Team

And now, a word to the men. Perhaps the newfound "emancipation of women" is one of the reasons some of the shine seems to be off your knightly armor. Unconsciously, you probably resent this modern trend toward equality. Most men do. But you may not realize that it has created emotional problems for women, too; problems which just a little extra thoughtfulness on your part could go a long way toward overcoming.

In Grandmother's day, little girls were brought up and educated differently from little boys. They were made to feel that a beautifully starched shirt or a perfect pie crust were ends enough in themselves.

By DR. JOYCE BROTHERS

Psychologist, commentator, and author of "Woman"

A "model" couple breaks up, and neither partner really knows why; but this noted counselor says it's probably the "hidden home wrecker" at work

Modern homemakers no longer take the same satisfactions. Girls are educated to compete with boys, then suddenly, diploma in one hand and marriage ring on the other, they are removed from the competition market. Of what use are all those A-plus report cards now? For wallpaper maybe?

The average American housewife curdles emotionally when she feels that her education and intellect are going to waste. What she craves, almost as deeply as her husband craves admiration, is to have him take her seriously. It's not flattery that she wants, just a willing ear.

Suzy Sokol was an outstanding young woman in every respect. She was beautiful, brainy, capable, and a sweet, affectionate person in the bargain. After graduating from a woman's college, she returned to her home town and took a job teaching French in her old high school. The boys she had grown up with were just a little afraid of her; they didn't consider themselves "good enough." But after Suzy had been teaching for a couple of years, a young doctor moved into the area, wooed Suzy, and won her.

Suzy's husband, Scott Woods, was a very busy man. He thought she was delicious; he thought she ran an exemplary home; he thought she was a terrific mother. But not surprisingly, whenever his wife tried to interest him in the details of PTA politics or den-mother discouragements, his attention drifted back to his medical journals.

Lost—A Sense of Importance

Furthermore, he did not like to have French poetry read aloud to him, and he couldn't muster much excitement when Suzy boasted that she'd used her wits and imagination toward a great domestic advance such as figuring out a foolproof way to keep brown sugar moist. Some husbands are able to give their wives a sense of importance by sharing business problems with them; but, as Suzy lacked medical training, it was impossible in this case.

Well, Suzy got pretty depressed. The kids were all in school, and she began to let herself and the house go to seed. She lounged around watching television soap operas and reading romantic novels. One day a psychiatrist friend of Scott's dropped in unexpectedly and found Suzy still in her bathrobe at 2 p.m. He knew both the Woodses well and promptly diagnosed the difficulty.

All it took to bring Suzy around was a little alert willingness on the part of her husband. When Suzy spoke of her "little" day-to-day challenges, Scott made a determined effort to listen. He found them to be more stimulating than he had imagined. Next he began to dip into some of Suzy's favorite French writers and conceded that he'd been missing a great treat.

Scott Woods finally learned something which a great many devoted but busy modern husbands will have to learn if they want to preserve their wives' sanity and joy in living: anything which deeply interests someone we love can and should be interesting to us, too.

In marriage, there is no worse sin—or at least no more subtle and dangerous sin—than indifference to your partner.

Don't Brush Off Breakfast!

Here's why that first meal of the day is the most important one, even if it means saving that pizza you were going to have for a midnight snack—and eating it in the morning instead!

By HORACE L. SIPPLE, Ph. D. Executive Secretary, The Nutrition Foundation

WE PRESENT-DAY Americans who ride to a sitting-down job every day don't need large quantities of food in the morning—but we do need a balanced breakfast in adequate amount.

A "sweet roll and coffee" breakfast short-changes you on protein, vitamins, minerals, and energy food. By mid-morning, your mental reactions are slower, your muscular fatigue increases, and your work output falls. But just a couple of additions—such as a bowl of cereal and milk or an egg, any style, plus a fruit rich in vitamin C—would multiply your effectiveness.

Even if you never feel hungry in the morning, a balanced breakfast is so important you should make changes in your daily routine to accommodate it. For example, eat a little less for your evening meal and cut out bedtime snacks to help generate a better appetite for breakfast. Get up a little earlier in the morning and rouse your family early enough to allow time for a meal. Begin with small servings of all the foods needed and gradually increase the size of portions as your appetite improves.

A child especially needs a good start in the morning. But it need not be the usual breakfast fare as long as it furnishes the nutrients he needs: that is, one-quarter of his daily calories and one-quarter of his daily protein and other nutrient requirements. This amount of food in the morning has been found to be superior to lighter or heavier meals at breakfast time.

Calories are merely a measure of the energy in food, and the amount a child needs is determined by his age, size, and physical activity. The placid, slow-moving child does not need as large portions of food as the child who is never still.

A LIGHT BUT ADEQUATE breakfast consists of fruit or juice containing vitamin C, cereal (enriched or restored), milk, toast, and a beverage.

Another good basic breakfast for moderns is fruit or juice containing vitamin C, egg or meat or fish or cheese, bread or roll (whole grain or enriched), and a beverage.

Either of these breakfasts can be adapted for anyone by adjusting the number and size of servings. For example, a member of the high-school basketball squad who practices every day probably would add cereal and milk or another egg and bacon to the second basic breakfast to provide the calories he needs. His grandmother probably would find the first breakfast adequate.

In choosing fruit for breakfast, emphasis should be put on citrus fruit to furnish vitamin C. This vitamin is essential for good health; it helps cement body cells, strengthen blood vessels, and promote healing. The child who drinks a glass of orange or grapefruit juice (or eats the fruit itself) for breakfast has taken in all the vitamin C he needs for the day. This vitamin is not stored by the body; it must be furnished in food daily. When a child does not eat fruit in the morning, he may not get enough "C" from his other meals.

There are adequate substitutes for citrus, and tomato juice is one. It takes twice as much tomato juice, by volume, to furnish the vitamin C in orange juice, but there is a bonus in the amount of vitamin A the tomato provides. Another excellent source of vitamin C is frozen strawberries. They may be blended with milk and stirred into cereal so a child will get most of his breakfast nutrients in one dish. Half a cantaloupe also furnishes adequate vitamin C when you want a change of pace.

High-quality protein is needed in the morning for tissue building and repair, to fight infection, and to supply energy. It may be supplied by a combination of plant protein from cereal and animal protein from milk, meat, or eggs.

SOMETIMES a youngster accepts his morning egg more readily in a Western-style sandwich. Also, a hamburger for breakfast will furnish a quarter of the protein needed for the day.

Hot dogs make good breakfast fodder for teen-agers, who tend to reject ordinary breakfast fare, when the hot dog is combined with an enriched roll and perhaps a malted. Pizzas piled with melted cheese and such other protein foods as anchovies or sausages furnish acceptable nutrients for teeners who want something different. With this menu, a large glass of tomato juice is a natural accompaniment.

The skip-breakfast youngster causes most of the school discipline problems. But when he has the nutrients he needs at breakfast, he'll be less belligerent and edgy because he'll feel better.

The average teen-age girl frequently skips breakfast because she thinks it's fattening. But that's the wrong time and the wrong way to cut calories. Proper breakfast foods are protective foods, needed for clear complexion, shiny hair, and other beauty aids. By skipping breakfast she may get so hungry by mid-morning she eats a candy bar for a pick-me-up—thereby piling in more calories than a balanced breakfast would furnish but losing most of the nutrients her beauty needs. And if the candy bar spoils her appetite for lunch, she may experience another energy letdown in mid-afternoon as well as a serious depletion of the daily intake of vitamins, minerals, and protein she needs.

As for parents, set your youngsters a good example by eating a good breakfast. In doing so, you'll be doing yourself a good turn, too.

CEREALS

Here are simple ways of adding flavor-enhancement and nutritive value to the ever-increasing variety of cereal preparations available.

1. Add cut-up dried fruits—dates, figs, apricots, peaches, apples, and raisins—to cereals before or after cooking.

2. Sweeten cereal with maple sirup, honey, or a mixture of brown sugar, cinnamon, and nutmeg.

3. Top cooked cereal with a layer of ready-to-eat cereal to add texture contrast.

Or sprinkle cooked cereal with Butterscotch Crunch made by combining 2 cups uncooked rolled oats, 1 cup firmly packed brown sugar, and ⅔ cup melted butter or margarine. Spread out in shallow pan and bake at 350°F about 10 min., stirring occasionally. Chill and crumble. This mixture makes about 5 cups crunch and may be stored in covered jars in refrigerator.

4. Raisin-spice oatmeal—Bring to boiling in saucepan 4 cups water, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, ¼ teaspoon nutmeg, and ½ cup seedless raisins. Stir in 2 cups rolled oats and cook according to package directions. Serve with brown sugar and milk or cream.

Liquid Toppings for Cereals

When plain milk served on cereals becomes a routine matter, try one of these flavorful and nutritious liquids prepared in an electric blender. These combinations may also double as beverages.

1. To each cup of milk, add ¼ cup maple sirup and 1 egg; blend thoroughly.

2. To each cup of milk, add 2 tablespoons creamy peanut butter, 1 tablespoon sugar, dash salt, and several drops vanilla extract. Blend until smooth and serve on cereal.

3. Add ⅔ cup flaked coconut to blender container; turn on blender and gradually add 2 cups milk. Blend about 5 min., or until smooth. Serve hot or cold over cereal which has been sprinkled generously with brown sugar. Coconut milk may be prepared ahead of time and stored in a covered jar in refrigerator. Stir or shake before using.

EGGS

With little time and trouble you can serve eggs in many interesting ways to add to their appeal.

1. During the last minute of cooking scrambled eggs, stir in one of the following: tiny bread cubes browned in butter or margarine in a skillet, strawberry preserves, shredded cheese, crumbled crisp bacon, or minced cooked ham. Or substitute dairy sour cream for milk in the recipe.

2. Serve scrambled eggs in sausage cups made by frying slices of sausage, such as bologna or cooked salami (do not remove casing), in hot fat in a skillet until the edges curl and form cups.

3. Prepare a plain fluffy omelet. After browning one side in skillet and before folding in half, spread one-half of omelet with leftover minced cooked chicken, ham or tongue, crumbled crisp bacon, shredded cheese, apricot jam, orange marmalade, jellied cranberry sauce, or cut-up drained canned fruit.

4. Prepare instant mashed potato according to package directions. Stir a little grated onion and shredded cheese into the potatoes, if desired. Shape into flat cakes and brown on both sides in hot fat. Top each cake with a poached egg.

Or serve each poached egg in a nest of hot buttered cooked rice or hominy grits.

5. Ham and Egg Nests—Combine 2 cups soft bread crumbs with about 2 cups ground cooked ham. Stir in contents of 1 can condensed cream of celery soup. Put ½ cup of mixture into each of 6 muffin-pan wells; press against sides to form a lining. Slip an egg in center of each and bake at 350°F 25 min., or until eggs are set.

BREADS

The many bread and biscuit mixes and refrigerated biscuits on the market offer a real challenge to your imagination. Here are a few suggestions:

1. Golden Corn Sticks—Using a package of corn bread mix, add to batter ½ cup shredded cheese. Bake in greased heated corn-stick pans at 425°F about 15 min.

2. Quick Coffee Cake—Combine ¾ cup flaked coconut with ⅓ cup sweetened condensed milk, 3 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted, and ½ teaspoon cinnamon. Using 1 8-oz. can refrigerated biscuits, spread bottom of each biscuit with coconut mixture. Arrange biscuits, spread side down, in greased 8-in. round or square pan; spread remaining mixture over top. Bake at 450°F 15 to 18 min.

3. Date Coffee Cake—Combine in a mixing bowl 1⅓ cups biscuit mix, ¾ cup sugar, and 3 tablespoons soft shortening. Add 1 egg and ⅓ cup milk. Beat 1 min. on low speed of electric mixer. Add another ⅓ cup milk and 1 teaspoon vanilla extract. Beat 1 min. longer. Stir in 1 cup pitted fresh dates, sliced. Sprinkle with a topping made by mixing ⅓ cup biscuit mix, ½ cup firmly packed brown sugar, 3 tablespoons soft butter or margarine, and ¼ teaspoon cinnamon. Bake at 350°F 35 to 40 min.

Waffle and Pancake Variations

1. Gingerbread Waffles—Prepare gingerbread mix as directed on package. Bake in preheated waffle baker. If desired, sift confectioners' sugar over hot waffles or serve with a dollop of dairy sour cream sweetened with a little honey.

2. Pancake Roll-Ups—Prepare thin pancakes (crêpes) as follows: Mix until blended ½ cup pancake mix and ½ cup milk. For each pancake, heat 1 teaspoon butter or margarine in a 6- to 8-in. skillet; pour in just enough batter to coat bottom with a thin layer. Brown on both sides until lightly browned. Place a thin slice boiled ham on each pancake and roll up. Place in shallow pan and spoon 1 teaspoon of a well-blended mixture of the following over each: ¾ cup (1 6-oz. can) orange juice concentrate and ¾ cup maple sirup. Place pancakes under broiler several minutes; serve at once with remaining sirup mixture.

3. Add to pancake or waffle batter any of the following: semisweet chocolate pieces, chopped pecans or walnuts, crumbled crisp bacon, finely chopped apple, shredded cheese, peanut butter, or a mixture of spices.

Sunday Breakfast...

Fruit, a platter of Canadian-style bacon, poached eggs on toast with Hollandaise sauce, and fried apple slices, hot bread made from a mix, and coffee—a hearty breakfast with a Sunday flair.

Every Day

..... every day because modern supermarkets offer a wealth of irresistible quick-and-easy convenience foods—frozen, canned, dehydrated, concentrated, baked, and preserved—to reduce breakfast preparation time to a minimum. ■ The appearance on the market of ever-improving food combinations and new methods of cooking them make convenience foods a challenge to the imaginative, ingenious homemaker who wants to take the monotony out of breakfast. Even old family favorites, long on preparation, can be streamlined and adapted to convenience foods with a little experimenting. ■ So let's put an end to eat-on-the-run breakfasts and, instead, put the family in an agreeable mood with a well-rounded, nutritious breakfast which includes fruit or fruit juice.

French Toast

An occasional change in the basic mixture used for dipping bread slices for French toast adds to its appeal.

For 6 slices bread, combine 2 slightly beaten eggs, ⅔ cup milk, ½ teaspoon nutmeg, and ⅛ teaspoon salt.

Variations:

1. Substitute orange juice for milk and cinnamon for nutmeg, or add 2 teaspoons grated orange peel and use cinnamon for nutmeg.

2. Omit spice and blend in ¼ cup creamy peanut butter.

3. Substitute undiluted evaporated milk for plain milk; dip bread in mixture and coat slices with yellow corn meal before frying. Or coat slices with finely crushed corn flakes or chow mein noodles.

4. Top French toast with drained canned sliced peaches. Serve with Orange-Maple Butter: Combine in a saucepan 1 cup maple-flavored sirup, ¼ cup butter, and ½ teaspoon grated orange peel. Bring to boiling.

5. Golden-Dipped French Toast—Cut 9 slices day-old bread diagonally into halves. Dip into a batter prepared as follows: Combine in a mixing bowl ¾ cup pancake mix, 2 eggs, ¾ cup milk, ½ teaspoon vanilla extract, and ⅛ teaspoon nutmeg. Brown on both sides in hot fat in skillet.

BEVERAGES

Add a surprise ingredient to an ordinary breakfast beverage or try a flavor-compatible combination of several beverages.

1. Top a steaming cup of hot cocoa or chocolate with a dollop of whipped cream or prepared whipped dessert topping and a sprinkling of cinnamon, instant coffee, or finely crushed peppermint-stick candy.

Or add ½ teaspoon instant coffee or several drops of peppermint extract to each cup of hot cocoa or chocolate.

2. Using an instant cocoa mix and instant coffee, prepare hot cocoa and hot coffee in equal amounts and blend them thoroughly.

3. Tea drinkers may like aromatic tea made by adding a little grated orange peel and several whole cloves to tea while it is brewing. Strain.

4. Combine equal amounts of coconut milk (see Liquid Topping 3) and boiling water in a saucepan; add instant coffee (1 teaspoon per cup); stir over low heat until thoroughly heated. Sweeten with a little brown sugar, if desired.

5. Add 2 tablespoons frozen orange juice concentrate to each cup of cold coconut milk (see Liquid Topping 3) and sweeten to taste with sugar; blend thoroughly.

6. Combine equal amounts of bottled cranberry juice and cold coconut milk (see Liquid Topping 3); blend thoroughly. If desired, blend in several drops red food coloring.

7. To each cup cold milk, add 1 cup cold bottled grape juice, ½ teaspoon lemon juice, ¼ cup sugar, and a dash of salt; blend thoroughly.

8. To each cup of reconstituted frozen pineapple juice, add 1 egg yolk, ¼ cup honey, and a dash of salt and nutmeg; blend thoroughly.

Note: Fruit drinks may be used on cereal.

My Favorite Breakfast

Hollywood's top stars tell how they start their day—some with exotic, unusual fare, others with hearty, old-fashioned favorites

CHARLTON HESTON

● Breakfast, for most of us, is only a joke. But not for me. I take second place to no man when it comes to an indulgence in gracious living—but who has time to shirr eggs, for example, at six o'clock in the morning? On the other hand, with a workday starting at that hour, you can't go till noon on toast and coffee, especially when your morning's tasks may include anything from parting the Red Sea to making love to Sophia Loren. My answer to this burning professional problem is Tiger's Milk!

The exact composition of Tiger's Milk is a mystery to me except that I know it is crammed with nutrition and a minimum of calories. To it, I add a dollop of wheat germ, a raw egg, some vanilla and nutmeg flavoring, and skim milk and saccharine. The whole mess is poured into an electric blender and beaten and then served foaming in a pewter mug.

Tiger's Milk does have one drawback, though. People don't seem to like watching me drink it. I've seen strong men blanch when they sit down with me. "What is that?" they ask.

"Tiger's Milk," I reply, trying to sound as healthy as possible. "I have it every morning." They usually examine it gingerly but won't go as far as to taste it. I must admit it looks sort of ominous.

JILL ST. JOHN

(Star of MGM's "Honeymoon Hotel")

● My favorite breakfast consists of raw clams on the half shell, which I have flown in from New York every Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday. I think this is a magnificently healthy way to start the day: raw clams are full of protein, light in taste, and hard enough to get at to make you exercise just enough to start your circulation moving!

There are no additional frills to my breakfast, not even a cup of coffee.

GLENN FORD

(Star of Warner Bros.' "The Out-of-Towners")

● I have always believed in a substantial breakfast. Therefore, when I built my home last year I suggested to a slightly amazed architect that a small kitchen unit be included just off my bedroom.

I recommend this to anyone who, like me, has an inclination to roll over when the alarm rings and then discover there is no time for breakfast. Now I can shave and shower while the coffee water is boiling or a breakfast dish is heating.

My breakfasts aren't limited to cereals or ham or bacon and eggs because I believe variety is important. My favorite early-morning menu might include fresh fruit, chicken livers sauté with a little brown sugar, toasted English muffins, and black coffee. Who can start the day in a pessimistic mood after a breakfast like that?

NATALIE WOOD

(Star of Warner Bros.' "Sex and the Single Girl")

● If you ask for my favorite breakfast, I must confess to one to which I succumb only on rare occasions: champagne with peaches and crêpes suzette. Normally, however, I subsist on the rather normal fare of a soft-boiled egg, milk, and fruit.

TONY CURTIS

(Star of Warner Bros.' "Sex and the Single Girl")

● Three days a week I work out with bar bells and weights before I eat breakfast. On those days, I have two raw eggs and fruit juice mixed in an electric blender. The other four days of the week I have a breakfast consisting of orange juice, two four-minute eggs, coffee with saccharine and milk, and two slices of whole-wheat toast with butter and apricot jam.

● Because I'm a fresh-air fiend and sleep in a cold room with the windows wide open, I usually have a healthy appetite when I wake up. I am an erratic eater with no specific daily breakfast menu. Sometimes I may have bacon and eggs, toast—the works. Other days I'll have only orange juice and coffee, or I may settle for Little Neck clams. And when Steve (Shirley's husband, producer Steve Parker) is home from Japan, he often fixes Japanese dishes for us—rice, raw fish, seaweed, or sukiyaki.

Generally speaking, when I am working on a picture I eat at the studio—where my secretary, Loretta Lee, fixes toast or sweet rolls and coffee. But Lori gets mad when she prepares lunch and I only nibble at it. She claims breakfast spoils my appetite for lunch. But what if it does?

ROCK HUDSON

(Star of Universal's "Man's Favorite Sport")

● Coffee, no cream, no sugar—that's enough to startle anybody awake.

DEBBIE REYNOLDS

(Star of MGM's "The Unsinkable Molly Brown")

● Since weekdays are workdays, my breakfasts are pretty routine: orange juice, poached eggs, and hot tea. I love breakfast and could easily make it the main meal. On weekends, in fact, all stops are out, and I'll have hot cakes with creamed butter, crisp bacon, and eggs sunnyside up. Sometimes I vary this with warm blueberry muffins, dripping butter, and crisp bacon with those sunnyside eggs.

Maybe one reason I await breakfast eagerly is that I am one of those 'morning-exercise people.' When I was on location in Colorado, I got teased a lot because I joined some crew members every day for a swim—at 4:30 a.m. Exercise gives me a bigger appetite.

GO TO CHURCH? WHO? ME?

What for? After all, Sunday's the one day for sleeping late, puttering around, maybe even a round of golf. Besides, what's the difference? Many say you don't have to go to church to be a Christian.

Yet your physical presence in a church gives you something you can find nowhere else. Certainly far more than duty draws people there. Maybe you've missed what sharing your faith with others can mean! To survive the centuries, the church must fill a deep, basic need. It may offer you more than you think . . . even something you don't realize you lack.

Just what can you expect from a church? This booklet can help you examine it pro and con. It's free, easy to read. Send now for: CHURCH? WHAT'S IN IT FOR ME?

Quips and Quotes

Getting a Lift Out of It

When I am settled and adjusted,
Just then, it seems, the floor is dusted.
Here comes my wife, here comes my sweet,
With mop and rag and "Lift your feet!"

I lift my feet, but none too high,
For I have noticed, with a sigh,
That "Lift your feet!" she'll soon insist,
Back once again for dust she missed.

—Richard Armour

The Sunday School teacher was a particularly dramatic one. In describing the Last Judgment, he shouted: "Thunder will boom! Great flames will pour from heaven! There will be gigantic floods, and earthquakes will split the world to swallow all!"

Just then a little girl held up her hand. "Will we get the day off from school?" she asked. —Herm Albright

—Gloria Bier

The neighborhood matrons were at their bridge club and, as usual, talking about their successful sons. "My son," said one, "sent me to Bermuda on a vacation this winter."

"My son also sent me on a vacation," said a second, "and when I got home I found a complete new wardrobe waiting for me."

"Well," a third said, "my son sent me on a vacation and bought me gifts, and do you know what else? Twice a week he goes to a psychiatrist. And what does he talk about?—me!"

—James Shurluck

Most hospitals have the recovery room in the wrong place. It should be next to the cashier's office.

—Anna Herbert

Oh, Grammar, What a Big Mouth You Got!

Oh, how I admire the man whose speech
Holds no grammatical flaw:
Who never says "both" when he means "each,"
Nor "seen" when he should say "saw."

But I regard him with outright love
If he can zipper his lips
And offer no smug correction of My own grammatical slips!

—Georgie Starbuck Galbraith

The young mother was concerned about her added pounds, so she went on a rigid liquid diet. Her four-year-old son didn't like the way dieting upset the family eating habits and complained to the nice lady down the street.

"My mommy doesn't sit with us at the table any more," he explained.

"That's strange," the neighbor said. "Where does she eat?"

"She doesn't eat," the youngster replied. "She just drinks."

—Frances Benson

I Lost a Leg, But I'm Still a Marine Jumper

He could have gotten easy duty after a tragic parachute jump—but he wanted to keep the toughest job in the Corps

By Staff Sgt. DONALD HAMBLEN
as told to Joseph N. Bell

LAST SEPT. 11, I made my 216th parachute jump—this one into Lake O'Neill at Camp Pendleton in southern California.

There was a lot of excitement about this jump, with a whole covey of reporters and photographers waiting for me when I was fished out of the lake. Why? Because it was one of the few times a man with one leg has ever made a parachute jump.

I'm glad the fanfare of that jump is over. I've made two jumps since without public attention—which is exactly the way I want it. All I've ever wanted since I lost my leg is to get back to business-as-usual with the Marine Corps. But it has been a tough, uphill grind.

I lost my leg as the result of a jumping accident in September, 1962. I'm a career Marine. The last few years, I've been with a reconaissance company that specializes in dropping teams behind enemy lines to gather intelligence. We have to be proficient both in jumping and scuba diving (for going ashore from a sub).

When I took off in a transport plane to make my 215th jump, it was just routine. Our plane circled the target area, and I went out last of a group of eight men, from an altitude of 1,250 feet.

My chute opened normally, but I suddenly was picked up in a patch of wind turbulence. There was a wind off the ocean and off the mountains at the same time. I found myself being blown off the path of the other men toward a set of high-tension wires.

Even when I saw the wires coming toward me, I didn't feel panicky. I know how to maneuver a chute in any direction under almost any conditions. There were two sets of wires, one 50 feet above the ground, the other set 20 feet lower. When I saw I couldn't land short of the wires, I maneuvered myself past them.

THEN—SO QUICKLY I had no chance to do anything—a wind off the ocean blew me back over the power lines. I hovered over them for a few seconds, drifting back and forth as I tugged at my chute. I managed to clear the top group of wires, and I think I would have cleared the lower ones, too, but my parachute caught in the top lines and suspended me, swinging like a pendulum, over the lower lines. I tried to pull up my feet, but my toes caught the middle of the three power lines and pulled it into contact with another.

When that happened, I felt as if lightning had gone off in my head. Everything in my consciousness turned a bright, flaming yellow, and thunderbolts seemed to ricochet through me. Then I fell.

It was a drop of 30 feet from the wires, but it felt soft, as if I were drifting down into a pile of mattresses. I found out later that the electricity had coursed up the nylon shroud lines and burned the parachute, dropping me to the ground. The jolt was so intense that it fused together all the metal parts of my parachute harness. Wherever there was metal, my body was burned. The most painful was a searing burn the exact shape of the pistol I was carrying on my hip.

I never lost consciousness. In a matter of seconds, I was surrounded by men from my company, who cut loose my parachute and pulled the boot off my burned leg. In less than a half-hour, I was in the hospital. I can still remember with a sense of thanksgiving the anesthetic that relieved me of the almost unbearable pain.

It was three days before they told me I was going to lose my leg. It was the only time I broke down. I remember I asked, "Where?" as if that made any difference. Then I said, "Let's get it over with so I can get back to duty."

My only really bad moment was in the realization that I might be surveyed out of the Marines because of my injury. I was going to have to prove to the Marine Corps that I could continue in my old job on a plastic leg. For a long time nobody seemed to believe it but me.

Three days after my operation there was a jump scheduled that was visible from the hospital, and I asked the nurses to wheel me out so I could watch. That was a real break because Gen. Herman Nickerson, commander of the 1st Marine Division, was also at the hospital to watch the jump. I told him that, more than anything else, I wanted to get back to my job in the Marine Corps. I meant it, and he remembered it months later.

As soon as my leg and burns had healed enough, I was sent to the amputee center in Oakland to be fitted for an artificial leg and taught how to use it. This was supposed to take from nine months to a year. I was there 58 days and was usually badgering the personnel to send me back to duty. I wasn't exactly a harmonizing influence around that hospital.

I got boiling mad at what I found there. Too many of the patients had simply given up and were trying to make their injuries look as bad as possible so they could get a fat settlement, and, I guess, sit around and vegetate the rest of their lives.

WHEN I'D LEARNED how to navigate on my new leg, I drove my car to Pendleton, got some orders made out to return to duty, and prodded the CO at the hospital to sign them. Then I showed up a couple of days later with my old outfit.

I figured I'd better show them in a hurry that I didn't need any sympathy, so shortly after I got back, I took part in a scuba-diving exercise with a special leg I'd designed myself for holding a swim fin in the proper position. I had no trouble completing the exercise.

After that, I became the center of a lot of official tugging-and-hauling that finally went all the way up to Gen. David Shoup, then Commandant of the Marine Corps. A lot of fine Marines (including General Nickerson) interceded in Washington to keep me from being mustered out.

There were other people who helped, too—particularly a lady in San Diego named Mrs. Barbara Hutchinson, who read about me in the newspapers and wrote the California Congressmen and Senators and asked them to help me. Finally, I was told I could have a choice of a disability pension and a good civil-service job or any Corps duty I wanted—as long as it was less demanding physically. When I told Gen. William T. Fairbourne I didn't want either but just wanted to stay a recon Marine, he sighed and said to me, "I was afraid of that."

Staying at my work meant I would have to pass the Marine Corps physical-fitness test, and it was agreed that if I could pass this test, I'd be permitted to stay with my recon group. I doubt if anyone but me thought I could pass the test since it involved running three miles in 36 minutes—and running is the one thing very difficult to do on an artificial leg.

FOR SEVERAL WEEKS, I practiced the three-mile course. I learned I could do it at a fast walk in 42 minutes; this meant I would have to run enough to cut six minutes from my walking time.

I got through the other tests—a two-minute uphill climb, knee bends, rope climb, 50-yard dash, combat run—without too much trouble. My biggest problem was jumping across an 8-foot ditch on the combat run. I solved that by diving across. Then came the three-mile test.

I took off, carrying a stop watch so I could pace myself carefully. I ran only when I had to, but toward the end I had to step up the pace, and in doing this I broke open some blisters that I had rubbed on the bottom of my stump. But I made the run in exactly 36 minutes.

Since that time, everything has been downhill. The Commandant agreed to let me jump again, and the fellows in my outfit decided I didn't need any sympathy —which is exactly the way I want it.

On last Sept. 11, I made that water jump into Lake O'Neill. I had no fear or misgivings. As far as I was concerned, the only thing unusual was that the jump had been delayed too long.

I've had a lot of letters since then from people who say they've been inspired by my example. I'm glad. One thing I've learned from this experience: there's practically nothing a man can't do if he is determined enough to see it through— —whatever the odds. But that determination has to come from within. And sometimes it has to be pretty powerful.

With me, it was built in. I wanted to stay in the Marine Corps, and this incentive was always driving me on. So I was lucky. But other people can find incentives just as strong. When they do, nothing can hold them back.
